A 'Dream' comes 'True' for local playwright

By ANNE PAPINEAU

A PLAY begun 50 years ago will not have its world premiere until Thursday, Sept. 21, but Portrait of a Dream is already a winner.

True Boardman of Pebble Beach is the first Monterey Peninsula resident to win the Carmel Festival of Firsts Playwriting Competition. Entries, 141 of them last year, are accepted annually from around the nation. But Boardman claimed the $1,000 prize for his play which takes its inspiration from the love affair between pre-Raphaelite poet and painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti and Elizabeth Siddal.

The prize money is only part of the cachet of winning the Festival of Firsts. Boardman will be able to see his two-act drama staged at Sunset Theater in Carmel. And a Monterey Peninsula cast and crew face the singular challenge of bringing to life a never-before-staged play. With no precedent to guide them, they have the honor of creating the characters and the look of Portrait of a Dream. In essence, they and the play's first audience emerge as winners as well, participants in the creative process.

"I am delighted with the cast. They are young and they're vital, and they like the play," pronounced the playwright, who sat in on rehearsals of Portrait of a Dream. Boardman is an acting veteran himself. As a child he worked in silent films opposite such superstars Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford. He also appeared in theater stock companies and recalls acting in a road-show version of The Green Hat with Ruth Chatterton at Monterey's State Theater. The year, Boardman recalled, was 1926.

Portrait of a Dream is directed by Peter DeBono, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula College Theater Department. This marks DeBono's sixth Festival of Firsts directorial assignment.

"This production is probably a little bigger in scope than the other plays we have staged," DeBono explained. "It is a period piece while most of them have been contemporary. The play is multi-scene and covers 12 years, from 1850 to 1862."

'It's a challenge to the actors to create a role that's never been played before. The idea of the festival is really beautiful.'

— Peter DeBono

At its core are the pre-Raphaelites, a brotherhood of English painters and poets who banded to protest low standards in British art. Peopling the play are such prominent pre-Raphaelites as John Millais and W. Holman Hunt. The group rejected the materialism of industralized England, and imitated the innocence of style of Italian painters prior to Raphael.

Dante Gabriel Rossetti will be played by Henry Guevara, and Elizabeth Siddal, his lover, is portrayed by Teressa McKillop. There are 14 actors in the cast. Each responded to an open call for auditions.

"One of the interesting things for me as a director, is that all these people are very young," noted DeBono, who leads a London theater tour each January through the college. While in London, he studied Rossetti's paintings at the Tate Gallery.

According to DeBono, Portrait of a Dream represents a rare opportunity for young actors to tackle major characterizations, yet still play people their own age. "He's in his early 20s, and Elizabeth is barely 17. They meet at the start of the play," he said.

ELIZABETH SIDDAL, beloved of Pre-Raphaelite poet and painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti, is portrayed by Teressa McKillop (left) in Portrait of a Dream. The Festival of Firsts staging also features Norman Stottmeister (center) as Algernon Swinburne and Jessica Ann Stevenson as Christina Rossetti. True Boardman wrote the prize-winning play, which will have its world premiere Thursday, Sept. 21 at Carmel's Sunset Theater. (Photo by Anne Papineau).

Playwright True Boardman was an undergraduate at UCLA when he first learned of this 19th century love affair.

"I had a very inspiring professor for a class in Victorian poetry. I began reading up on Rossetti, Browning and Patmore, and others of that age," Boardman recalled. "I learned of the pre-Raphaelite brotherhood. Rossetti grew up in London. He and his sister Christina both became poets. The play covers the very dramatic romance of this young, rebellious poet who led the pre-Raphaelites to a revolution in art. I wrote the basic idea 50 years ago as a radio play. It stayed in my files for years."

This is his first full-length play. But Boardman's resume also includes more than 200 radio plays, several screenplays, a score or more teleplays and many documentaries. In the golden age of radio, he wrote scripts for such luminaries as Clark Gable, Leslie Howard, Rosalind Russell and Loretta Young.

"The play is basically true to history. When dramatizing you must take some liberties. The relationships are true. Some of the ways characters meet are of necessity fiction," explained Boardman.

Portrait of a Dream has had several working titles over the last half-century. Among those Boardman recalls are Come Live with Me, The House of Life and Chiaroscuro.

DeBono praised the play as "briskly paced. It needs very little changing.

"I've done six of these, and this one is pretty intact, ready to be produced. It's ironic in that the playwright has wanted to cut things, and I wish to leave them in."

City council begins negotiations for purchase of Hodges property

By NANCY HILLS

WITH NO one speaking against the action, the Carmel City Council unanimously voted to begin negotiations for possible acquisition of the approximately 6.5-acre riverside Hodges property.

The vote starts in motion the various steps a the city must go through before a final decision on a purchase is made. Since the property lies along the city limits, on the county side, those steps would include annexation.

The idea to buy the land met with approval by residents in the audience.

"Buying the land, this is the only way to keep people from moving into the area. This is how to control growth — purchase the property and let the ducks splash around in it," said Carmel resident Paul Hazdovac.

"The purchase of the Hodges property is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," said Carmel Residents Association representative Clayton Anderson. "It can be considered for many uses and is not unlike the purchase of the Sunset Center years ago."

Northeast Neighborhood Association president Barry Smith added that his organization had not discussed the purchase, but he felt certain that "I speak for the members when I say this is the type of acquisition we are in favor of, especially if Friar Serra becomes a saint. We are going to need to address parking in that residential area."

"We shouldn't get too excited about it until we hear how much (the Hodges) want," cautioned Councilmember James Wright just before the vote.

There was no estimate of the value of the land, though realtors in the area remember the property was listed for more than $1 million a few years ago.

The property is approximately 6.5 undeveloped acres off Lasuen Drive, behind the Carmel Mission complex, next to Mission Ranch tennis courts on the west and Junipero Serra School ballpark on the east.

It includes sections on both sides of the Carmel River and a piece of the river itself, a location that puts much of the land into the flood zone and wetlands.

The Carmel Sanitary District facility forms the southern boundry and a sewage access pipe, overgrown with vines, runs along the eastern property line.

City Administrator Doug Schmitz explained to the council that the land is zoned for six units an acre, though how much could actually be used for homes and structures is unknown at this point.

One of the first steps in the process is a review by the planning commission to determine if the purchase of the property is in compliance with the city's general plan.

It is already too late to get the proposition on the agenda for September planning commission meetings, so October is the earliest time the commission could consider the question.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

A love letter

Dear Editor:

This is an open and unabashed love letter to the Carmel Foundation for its untiring efforts on behalf of the Community and its needs.

I am certain that I speak for all the 27 happy tenants at Norton Court Apartments when I say many, many thanks for our beautiful new home.

To the many people behind the scenes whose vision, dedication, persistence and hard work made Norton Court possible, thank you! I especially want to thank Evelyn Vitarisi for her consideration, sensitivity and patience while answering hundreds of questions — some more than once — always maintaining her lovely composure and good humor. Evelyn, you're a living doll!

And John Freitas, that exquisite, long stemmed rose with a welcome card was the icing on the cake. Such a landlord!

Each time I turn the key and walk into my lovely apartment, I will be thinking thank you, Carmel Foundation. You deserve the support of all of us. Be assured that you have mine.

Local service

Dear Editor:

The recent letter from your readers, the Andersons ("Business Attrition," Sept. 7), misses the mark. The business alluded to as "competing" (a wrong thing to do?) with Copies by the Sea is Mail Mart, a multifaceted business and postal service center offering far more than just copies. In fact, copying in black and white amounts to only a small portion of this business that was designed specifically to serve local residents.

We serve the local public seven days a week, offer UPS, Airborne Express, packing, wrapping, shipping service, fax service, passport photos, packing boxes and materials, stationary, gift wrapping (free, incidentally if you have a receipt from a local merchant), and, lastly, anticipate the arrival next week of Carmel's only color laser copier.

We pay rent just like everyone else, pay employee salaries and take great pride in providing the best service to our customers. We're all local owners and Ms. Podoloff's landlord is but one of four shareholders in the business. It is unclear what ax the Andersons have to grind, but if they would kindly step into our store, I believe they would understand what the words "local service" are all about.

A birthday message

Dear Editor:

With the exception of two individuals, I have lived my life always thanking those who helped me along its rocky path.

Barney and my father give new meaning to the word friend. How ironic that with my father's passing away I should be with Barney that evening. His wisdom is beyond reproach and while others strive to master human nature, Barney just understands this earth with a gentle wisdom I have not seen before in my so few 42 years.

With a friend like Barney, thanks is just not enough but all he will accept. I trust that just knowing him will allow some of this powerfully gentle man to rub off on me so that friends I have won't find any need to say thanks.

Barney Laiolo. He energized my home with his electrical knowledge, but more than that he keeps the hearts of my family aglow with only his smile and love of life.

Happy birthday to a truly great man.

Thankful bookworms

Dear Editor:

The Carmel Valley Bookworms would like to express our appreciation to the community and the Pine Cone for their support in making our First Annual Book Sale at Wells Fargo restaurant a smashing success.

We have received word from the Carmel Valley Community Center that the funds raised by this sale will be used to purchase equipment for their "Friday Escape Program" which supports the teens of the community. Without the help of the many people who donated books and attended the sale, none of this would have been possible.

We are so pleased by this support that the Carmel Valley Bookworms will "come out" again next August for the Second Annual Book Sale!

Thank you everyone!

Discovering Carmel

Dear Editor:

Hello! My name is Karen Katz. I am a teacher in Vallejo, Ca. This year my class is studying California and I would like to get information about lots of different parts of California from the people who live in the varied towns and cities of our state. Therefore, I have asked my students to write letters that I hope you will print in your "Letters to the Editor" section or in some appropriate section of your newspaper.

Thank you in advance for your help in our study of California.

'The Carmel Touch'

Dear Editor:

Thank you for publishing Bill Bates' cartoons. Why are there weeks without one? Every week I hope to see his work of art in the Pine Cone. Why does he disappoint me? He has so much talent. Let me enjoy it!

I sent congratulations to him and told him my friends and relatives in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York City enjoyed them too.

How about a cartoon on hair? Men and women — the uncombed kind — stringy, bushed, etc. on young and old. In Pennsylvia Dutch country we call it "strubbely," which means messy.

Of course, you have, and I admire it, "The Carmel Touch." You add to our list of great Carmel artists.

(Editor's Note: Great artists being what they are, Bill Bates probably needs inspiration to strike before a true example of his work can be reproduced in the Pine Cone. Sometimes the muses are just not very cooperative. At least that's the editor's point of view, which as you know, can be way off base; at least that's what everyone tells me!)

Setting him 'straight'

Dear Editor:

Thank you for publishing my letter, which appeared under the caption "People With Assets", in your Aug. 31 issue.

The very same day a Carmel "old timer" (been here since 1925), wrote me a very nice letter pointing out the error of my ways and advising me to "get your entire facts straight before writing another letter to the editor of the Carmel Pine Cone".

So this is my attempt to straighten out my facts which were obviously crooked!

According to "Old Timer" the Shopkeepers don't live in Pebble Beach but rather in Pacific Grove and Monterey. Probably live in those $150,000 Victorians on the 20-foot lots.

Also I was wrong about the clerks. They don't commute and are not well paid. Most receive $3.50 an hour and live here in Carmel. I often wondered who lived in those $350,000 to $400,000 Carmel cottages. It's the clerks! They must do OK on the stock market.

Also it was news to me that, that great expanse of undeveloped land, I see as I drive down Rio Vista Drive, consisting of thousands of acres, is going to be subdivided! Probably into 1,000-acre lots. Well, I hope "Old Timer" will buy one, keep it virgin, continue to pay the taxes on it, and let me view it for free whenever I want to.

My special thanks to "Old Timer" for helping me clean up my facts. We young folks give thanks to you old folks for good advice. We can use good advice from time to time.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $15 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Residential design review discussions continue

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL City Council will continue its discussions on residential design next week, tangling with such sticky issues as lot coverage and two-story versus one story houses.

On Aug. 15, the council began its review of the planning commission's recommendation for changes in residential design codes. The changes are intended to address concerns citizens have expressed over what they see as the changing atmosphere in Carmel.

'What we were are seeing is the removal of the more typical Carmel cottages. What I see as the ultimate result is a changed community that would not be Carmel.'

— James Wright
— Councilman

The council has scheduled a special meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 19 in Carmel City Council Chambers at city hall.

Faced with an average lot size of 4,000 square feet, the council is struggling to rely on a reduction in the maximum lot coverage and total floor area allowed as opposed to using a more intense design review process to ameliorate the appearance of bulkiness and bad design.

Even the planning commission was split on that issue.

Now, the maximum square footage allowed is 1,600 square feet with an additional 200 square feet for a garage or carport.

The planning commission, with some major dissent, has proposed reducing the maximum allowed to 1,400 square feet, a move opponents of size reduction state makes such a small house that it eliminates families and a variety of other people from living in Carmel.

Furthermore, they state, it does not ensure a good design or address the differences in building sites.

"Two hundred square feet from the exterior does not have that much of an impact visually," Carmel builder Chris Tescher has said, "but it makes a big difference in the living area inside."

At the August meeting, Councilmember Jim Wright stated he did not believe the code should allow for the largest house possible on the lot.

"What we were are seeing is the removal of the more typical Carmel cottages — one and two bedrooms — to the the maximum size. We are not that type of community. Smaller lots call for smaller houses. What I see as the ultimate result is a changed community that would not be Carmel," Wright observed later.

What many of the builders have suggested is the formation of an architectural review commission that focuses exclusively on design.

Proponents of the new design review group state that it members and the designers and homeowners could look at the plans together and discuss, compromise and share thoughts with each other, ironing out potential difficulties before it goes to a public hearing.

It would save time and relieve many of the misunderstandings that arise during the formal public hearings, they claim.

During the upcoming special meeting the council will also:

- Continue its discussion on lot coverage and floor area ratio.

The council is discussing establishing a building coverage restriction of 35 percent of the lot, which would limit the maximum size house and garage on a 4,000 square foot lot to 1,400 square feet.

The planning commission has recommended retaining the 45 percent limit for the floor area ration — the ratio between the total floor area square footage and the lot size.

Opponents of this change state it will encourage two-story homes, which can take advantage of the 10 percent difference between site coverage and floor area ratio.

- Another subject bound to generate controversy and heated debate within the community is the subject of demolitions, which is one of the items on the agenda.

The planning commission has recommended that any decision on demolitions wait until Carmel Heritage's historical/architectural survey about to begin in October is completed. However, the definition of remodeling should be reworked so one wall left standing is no longer the minimum criteria for a remodel.

One of the main concerns many citizens have expressed is the demolishing of the older homes in Carmel to be replaced by larger house.

Currently the city has no official code or law that restricts demolitions based on historical or architectural significance.

The planning commission suggests making no recommendation on lot mergers to retain larger lots.

City looking into a revised trash recycling program

By NANCY HILLS

YOU ONLY go around once — unless you're an aluminum can.

Or possibly a newspaper, glass bottle, plastic container or a piece of cardboard.

Those items are candidates for recycling, an activity that more and more communities and their governments are focusing their efforts on to improve citizen participation.

Carmel Disposal Service and the city of Carmel have had a recycling pick-up program for the past seven years, a weekly curbside pick-up on trash day that was up to the resident to separate and package. According to statistics from Carmel Disposal, citywide participation is between 25 and 30 percent while the commercial district is excluded from the program.

But finances have threatened the weekly pick-up schedule. Furthermore, future state legislation will probably require cities to develop a plan to reduce the solid waste they send to landfills.

The city and Carmel Disposal Service are working on a revised version of the current program, concentrating on increasing residential participation, including the commercial district and maintaining a weekly pick-up schedule.

The company would also impose a charge of about 4.2 percent of the customer's garbage bill. That percentage works out to about 25 cents a month for most residential accounts.

In exchange, Carmel Disposal Service will give each customer a set of three plastic bins in greens and yellow, to hold the recycling materials and to place by the curbside on pickup day. Also it will institute a publicity campaign and continue weekly pick-ups. A set of three stacking bins costs about $16.94, company information shows.

"In an environmentally minded community, we think we can get 80 to 90 percent participation," said Carmel Disposal Service co-owner Bill Parsons.

The program will also include commercial customers, who would pay an average of $1.25 per month, according to Carmel Disposal Service's calculations based on an average of six cans per customer. The inclusion of commercial customers will garner one of the most valuable recycling commodities, Parsons explained, and that is cardboard. Cardboard helps financially to "carry" the other products, which are not cost-efficient to recycle.

The city council will take public comment on the program at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 19 in Carmel City Council Chambers at city hall.

CARMEL MAYOR Jean Grace poses with the stacking and labeled recycling bins that Carmel Disposal Service has suggested it give to Carmel residents and businesses as a part of a revised citywide recycling program. County, DA cautiously seeking help on illegal Murphy grading

By DAVID LELAND

THE DISTRICT attorney's office has extended a cautious invitation to the state Coastal Commission concerning its case against absentee landowner John Murphy.

In a separate action Tuesday, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, which also invited the state Attorney General's office to come on board, asked the Coastal Commission to assist in the slow-moving case.

'It's a public-interest case and the public has a right to know what's going on. This is a precedent-setting case for the entire coast, and Monterey County in particular.'

— Todd Acheson
— Garrapata Creek resident

Last December, Deputy District Attorney Morgan Taylor filed a lawsuit against Murphy and Little Horse Ranch Limited Partnership, alleging that Murphy had bulldozed illegal roads on his property in the hills south of Carmel Valley.

Some observers charge that Murphy wants to use the roads to initiate future development on the land, but Murphy has steadfastly maintained that any grading done on the land was performed in connection with the California Department of Forestry, which would use the roads for equipment to fight fires. That has never been corroborated by CDF.

Since December, Taylor and Monterey attorney Susan Dauphine, representing Murphy, have not been able to agree on a temporary erosion control plan to stop the roads from sliding downhill into local streams during the coming rainy season, thus harming the environment.

A state Department of Fish and Game biological report issued at the time the lawsuit was filed said that the alleged grading project had already adversely affected steelhead habitat in Wildcat Canyon and Garrapata creeks.

The alleged violation first occurred in the spring of 1988 and is still unresolved.

In his Sept. 11 letter to the Coastal Commission, which was to hear the issue in an executive session after press time, Taylor outlined some possible barriers regarding the possibility of the Coastal Commission joining the team.

"While I am sure that you must have much to offer us...I also know that a great way to lose a good case is to turn it over to a committee," said Taylor in his letter to the Coastal Commission.

Negotiations are delicate regarding the erosion control plan, to say the least, an idea that Taylor broaches in his letter.

"How are we (DA and Coastal Commission), going to check (and treat) leaks of confidential information...to the public," Taylor asked in his letter. "Are your agency's policies strict enough to deter those with non-conforming agendas from using such leaks to achieve their own purposes?"

Murphy and Dauphine jointly agreed not to speak to the news media from the outset in

Revised recycling plan possible

In 1982, Carmel Disposal Service established a weekly pick-up in Carmel of newspapers and aluminium cans set out on the "curb" (or the Carmel equivalent).

The company's most recent contract with the city, signed two years ago, states that it will continue that service.

But things change and, according to Parsons, what was never a financial bonus for the company has now become a substantial loss.

"We did it as a civic service, but, unfortunately, sales don't come close to operating costs," he said. "When it started, everyone thought it would be a money-maker but that didn't happen."

'We did it as a civic service, but, unfortunately, sales don't come close to operating costs. When it started, everyone thought it would be a money-maker but that didn't happen.'

— Bill Parsons
— Carmel Disposal

The price paid per ton for recyclable materials has dropped considerably rather than increasing, Parsons said.

He said Carmel Disposal is losing about 50 cents per customer whether or not he or she uses the recycling service.

Even with a charge for the service and the plastic bins, the company will not be making money, Parsons said.

"We are not trying to make a profit — we will eat whatever the shortfall is," he said.

Carmel Disposal has made some significant investments in recycling, he added.

The company's recent investments in new recycling equipment and a reduction in the price offered for such products as aluminum and newspapers have made the program lose money, explained Parsons.

Additionally, the company started a bi-weekly program in Pacific Grove, which has spread their resources thin.

"We bought a state of the art recycling truck, divided into three separate dump containers," Parsons said.

In their new $2 million corporation yard in Castroville, about $500,000 went into redevelopment of the recycling facility, he added.

Because of the contract with the city, the council must decide whether to hold the company to its current arrangement or go with the more intense, upgraded program.

The company had asked the city council to allow for the bi-weekly pick-up earlier this year and in response, Mayor Jean Grace appointed an ad hoc committee to help develop a plan by the end of 1989.

The council began discussions on the issue at its Sept. 7 meeting.

"Will Rogers once said 'Neither man not beast is safe when Congress is in session.' I guess that can apply to us. I thought we had a 10-year contract. A few weeks ago they asked to move to bi-weekly pickup and now we are going back to weekly pick-up and with a higher charge," councilmember Ken White said.

One point made in favor of the proposed new system with the plastic bins is that it would help the city comply with forthcoming state laws and already have a program in place.

The bins, Parsons said, help encourage others to get involved with the program. The green and yellow colors were selected to both stand out and blend with Carmel's ambiance as much as possible.

"I understand the concern (about the colors), but it does seem to really put peer pressure on others when they see their neighbors' bins out," Parsons told the council.

The bins are used in many other areas, including some rural areas, but there hasn't been any problems with animals.

The public is invited to speak on the issue at the special city council meeting next Tuesday.

Help sought on Murphy lawsuit

order not to try the case in the press, according to Taylor.

In the meantime, the county has stepped up its efforts to provide input into the case.

In a strongly worded letter to Taylor, Bob Slimmon, planning and buiding director, voiced his concerns about the direction of the erosion control plan.

"The plan cannot consist of a matrix of activities that indicate what work may be done," he wrote, referring to a complicated chart contained in a previous plan consisting of Xs denoting work that may be performed. "It must be what will be done.

"The county, state and public must have clear assurance through that plan that the work will be done and that work will meet the goal of the county for protection of the resources."

Slimmon also called for an outside consultant to be hired by Murphy to monitor the work.

Moreover, Slimmon advised Taylor against committing to any plan that would leave the alleged illegal roads in permanently.

"I am extremely concerned over any action that we take which implies in any way that the illegal road system can and will be retained," he wrote. "We, as a department, have no authority to approve, condone or imply that the illegal road system will be retained."

Slimmon added that whether the roads are allowed, they should be part of the public hearing process. He also called for the "least intensive plan possible to accomplish erosion control and stabilization" for this winter.

This plan includes removal of sidecast material and the banning of any vehicles on the roads, except emergency fire equipment.

SOME PEOPLE observing the case contend that personalities have replaced principles.

"It's a public-interest case and the public has a right to know what's going on," said Todd Acheson, Garrapata Creek resident. "This is a precedent-setting case for the entire coast, and Monterey County in particular."

Taylor has reportedly balked at pursuing a remedy in the courtroom because of lack of case law concerning restoration.

Acheson also charged that the DA and board of supervisors are more concerned with appearing in agreement than with clearing up the violation.

"They're trying to present a united front," he said. "Rather than dealing with the case, they are dealing with image."

Supervisors OK valley airstrip despite protests from residents

By DAVID LELAND

OVERRULING 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, county supervisors Tuesday approved a private aircraft landing strip in Carmel Valley.

Strasser Kauffman was the lone dissenting vote on the board, and agreed with the three appellants that the airstrip was unnecessary and illegal.

"I have to pay attention when everyone speaks out against a potential use," Strasser Kauffman said after the hearing. "I have concerns about the precedent-setting nature (of the use) and the proliferation of air traffic in the little valley."

The majority of the board agreed with the Monterey County Planning Commission that the use permit meets the criteria contained in the local land use plan and that there was no reason to deny it.

Last April, the planning commission approved a combined development permit for Mike Markkula's 13,000-acre Rana Creek Ranch, which included a 30-foot wide by 2,500-foot long agricultural runway.

'I have concerns about the precedent-setting nature (of the use) and the proliferation of air traffic in the little valley.'
— Karin Strasser Kauffman

Markkula, co-founder of Apple Computer Co., and his representatives said they needed the airstrip in order to carry out a high-tech cattle breeding business.

But neighbors bordering the property contended that the airstrip was violating their privacy and setting a dangerous precedent to the county when other property owners ask for the same thing.

Appellants were Peter and Mary Marble, the Asoleado Homeowners Association and the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association.

Brian Finegan, attorney for the Marbles, told the board that the airstrip was built without a permit by the previous owner in 1982, and required a use permit.

He also claimed that the airstrip was inconsistent with the Cachagua Area Plan, which calls for agricultural use for the property.

"That runway is dead in the middle of important farmlands," he said, adding that he did not believe Markkula's claims that the airstrip would be razed and the land farmed in the future. "I say that's baloney."

Finegan called on airport expert David Hodges to testify that the airstrip was too large for the land and the noise would affect nearby residents.

"Every surrounding property owner has objected to this permit and runway," Finegan said.

Finegan also hinted that the Markkulas may have a hidden agenda for the airstrip via their San Jose-based ACM, Inc., a jet charter plane service.

"Is the airstrip incidental to farming or incidental to the jet charter business?" Finegan asked.

Markkula, speaking through attorney Anthony Lombardo, denied any such use for the airstrip.

Ed Jones, representing the 27-member Asoleado Homeowners Association, suggested Markkula do what other owners do.

"Our suggestion is to go 30 minutes away and use the Monterey County airport, where you can use any kind of aircraft you want," he said.

Others voicing opposition to the airstrip at the hearing included the League of Women Voters, representatives from the Carmel Ranch Co. and the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society.

Paul Eastman, representing the Audubon Society, told the board that "there will be lawsuits filed in court by many people" if the airstrip is approved.

After approving the use permit for the airstrip and storage building, supervisors attached a condition that would require 24-hour-a-day noise monitoring on the airstrip.

"I hope that will prevent any abuses," Strasser Kauffman said. The board will consider that action in two weeks.

Another condition states that there may be no more than 75 flights arriving and leaving the airstrip within a one-year period.

One commissioner seat still unfilled

MAYOR JEAN Grace had no appointee last Thursday, Sept. 7 to fill departing planning commissioner Olof Dahlstrand's position.

Dalhstrand told Grace he would stay through September and the council will consider a replacement in October.

Grace praised Dahlstrand as an "extremely dedicated individual" and said she wanted to chose someone who would serve the council and the public equally well.

It must be somebody who represents no particular group or ideology and resists divisive politics, she said, as well as balances the commission.

"For instance, there is no one from the building trade on the commission," she said.

Grace said she asked one person, but that person lives outside the city limits.

Big Sur Multi-Agency Council to meet

THE BIG Sur Multi-Agency Council will hold its quarterly meeting at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 22, at the Big Sur Grange Hall.

The meeting will address potential projects such as land acquisition by the Coastal Conservancy in Gorda, an observation area at Anderson Peak, and review projects by local, state and federal agencies.

For information contact 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman's office at 647-7755.

Business community seeks waiver on parking tickets for holiday

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL Business Association made an intriguing request of the Carmel City Council: suspend enforcement of parking violations during the three weeks prior to Christmas.

The plan would either eliminate enforcement in all one- and two-hour parking zones for what is basically the first three weeks of December. Carmel Police Chief John McGilvray suggested an alternative plan of two weeks rather than three and for the morning hours only.

The purpose is to help the businesses of Carmel during what is traditionally the slowest time of the year in Carmel — the weeks just before Christmas, said CBA representative Gary Luce.

"It's dead, really dead," he said.

Lifting parking restrictions is one way to attract local customers to shop in downtown Carmel during the Christmas season and gain support for resident-oriented businesses, Luce explained.

"Our basic idea is to provide peninsula residents as well as Carmel-by-the-Sea residents a shopping alternative here rather than have them go to Del Monte Center," Luce said.

After Dec. 21 the inns and hotels are full and the commercial district is busy, he said, and the city could then reinstate its parking restrictions.

The council decided to postpone a decision until its October meeting after City Administrator Doug Schmitz said there may be potential repercussions the staff needed to investigate.

Luce said the promotion is needed even more now because last year's sales tax receipts were less than in 1984 or 1985, demonstrating that the business district is losing customers.

Mayor Jean Grace pointed out another reason that the receipts may be lower.

"Don't you think that the two years Mr. Eastwood was mayor might have drawn more people to town? We will probably never see those numbers again," she said.

Grace also asked Luce if the CBA had ever done a study on the psychology of the shopper and why they go to Del Monte Shopping Center rather than Carmel.

"I went to Del Monte and parked, then counted my steps from Macy's. It was as far or farther than in Carmel to a shop. Why do people object to walking two or three blocks in Carmel and not at Del Monte Center?" she asked.

Luce said he did not know the answer to that question.

The CBA, he said, would be willing to look at the cost of providing new parking signs or bags to cover the one and two-hour parking signs.

"I think the intent is something we all can share," Councilmember Jim Wright said. "It is more of a publicity gimmick than anything, but what I see happening is the first employees that come in will stay and park as long as they can."

The business community would try to ensure that employees not use all the parking places, said CBA president Barbara Simmons.

"If they don't, we (the businesses) are the ones that will be the losers," she said.

Simmons told the council that McGilvray's suggestion was fine except that in retail business, the afternoon was the only time that the waiver would really have any benefical effect.

Councilmember Bob Fischer objected to the whole concept.

"I've got to state flat out that I'm adamantly opposed to this. I think those zones will be filled with employees. All of the sudden, the city is now in the business of promotion," he said.

There was also a concern about what to do with the five parking meter attendants during that time.

Bond burning celebrates city ownership of Sunset Center

THE CITY of Carmel invites everyone to join in an activity most could joyously relate to — burning the mortgage.

The city will burn a copy of the bond that it issued to pay for Sunset Center on Sept. 23. The last payment on the bond was made earlier this year.

In conjunction with the Festival of Firsts, on Saturday, Sept. 23, Sunset Center will host music and entertainment free on the terrace, open house in the rooms and a chili dinner for $5. For $8, citizens can have both dinner and a ticket to the Festival of Firsts play which begins at 8 p.m.

The festivities begin at 2:30 p.m. and change every half an hour, beginning with El Mariachi Mixtlan and in sucession GroveMont/Carmel Play Festival, Watsonville Dixieland Band, Greek Village Dancers, gynmastics and Forest Theater Guild.

The bond-burning ceremony begins at 5:30 p.m. and city officials will formally and actually burn a replica of the bond.

The picnic dinner on the terrace begins at 6 p.m. and tickets can be purchased at Sunset Center and, beginning next week, in front of the Village Corner restaurant.

The Monterey Bay Symphony Brass Quartet begins playing at 6:30 p.m. and Robert Louis Stevenson School musicians at 7:30 p.m. stance Gamiere designed the pre-Raphaelite costumes.

A singular challenge for designer Wikdahl in this play is that Boardman has integrated specific, famous paintings into the scenes.

"In some cases, we have had to show representations of these paintings in progress," DeBono pointed out. To achieve that effect, Wikdahl made color photocopies of prints, and whited out portions of the painting to achieve the proper, "unfinished" look.

According to Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler, the budget to produce the play is $8,000. Of that amount, $1,000 was provided by the City of Carmel, $5,000 was donated by Doris Day, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Melcher and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis LeVett, and $2,000 was given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Berman.

Other locals contributed to the production as well. Luciano Antiques, for example, supplied much of the period furniture.

The public is invited to attend the world premiere staging of Portrait of a Dream. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Sept. 21-23, in Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. Tickets are $5 and reservations can be made through Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey, 649-5561, or the Sunset Center Director's Office, 624-3996.

"I enjoy working on original plays," DeBono observed. "It's a challenge to the actors to create a role that's never been played before. The idea of the festival is really beautiful."

Although a veteran of hearing his words spoken by accomplished actors, playwright True Boardman remains enthusiastic about this project.

"This will be a real, genuine joy to me to see the full-length play brought to life," he exclaimed. "I look forward to it with a sense of joy and expectation."

Water board continues reclamation meeting

THE WATER board took public comment on the private financing of a sewage water reclamation plant Sept. 11 and continued the hearing until a special meeting.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board had announced prior to the meeting that it would take no action on Monday and continued the matter to the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 3.

Only the League of Women Voters opposed the private financing plan, which would give the Pebble Beach Co. an entitlement of 380 acre feet of potable water and the public back 420 acre feet now being used on golf courses. The company would receive the entitlement in exchange for financing the $13-$15 million plant.

The league advocates public financing of the project. Director Dick Heuer also asked that the resolution be amended to allow for a public vote on the financing plan.

Water board director and 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who has also been a proponent of public financing but said no one had come forward to organize a movement in that direction, said it is nonetheless important to get a reclamation project in operation.

BUSINESS BEAT

By David Leland

Getting to know you

AFTER HEARING the distressing news that business in Carmel is not exactly booming, several members from the Carmel City Council took turns at last week's Carmel Business Association meeting in attempts to address members' concerns.

More specifically, at the meeting it was reported that hotel occupancy is down 3 percent, 80 percent of restaurants are showing a loss and as many as 30 percent of retail owners are sliding backward.

And while the meeting surely marked an effort of good faith between the city and business community, it soon became apparent that the two sides are hardly moving as one.

One CBA member found it somewhat appalling that the city does not help fund the organization's marketing efforts.

That idea was ill-received by Mayor Jean Grace, who doubted that there was a "mythical" city that could bring the appropriate response to business owners' pleas for wealthy tourists.

Grace said the city spends its fair share of revenue cleaning up after tourists and policing their actions. In fact, she doubted whether the majority of the community feels the same as the business district when it comes to the subject of tourism.

"Nobody wants to promote any more visitors than we have," she said. "The fact that they are not buying is a demographic problem."

The culprits, she said, are the lower- and middle-income folks who live in places such as Hollister, Gilroy and King City.

'They don't buy a lot and they don't buy expensive gifts," she said. "It's not something that you as a business community or the city are going to change."

Gone are the "well-heeled" patrons who graced the streets of Carmel 20 years ago, Grace said. Now, the best the city can do is to attempt to alleviate traffic congestion.

And what should businesspeople do? "We have to go after the people who are coming here and sell to them more," Grace said.

T-shirts, anyone?

These would be Fashion Images, Giggles, J'Arrive and Pezzini Farms.

Transient taxes abound... The city of Carmel boosted its transient occupancy tax by 1.7 percent during the past year, according to figures released last week by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Convention Bureau.

The total amount collected for the fiscal year ending in June of 1989 stands at $2,543,724, a small rise over last year's $2,501,055.

The hostelry tax composes 33 percent of the city's annual budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1988 and ending June 30, 1989.

Monterey County experienced an increase of 26.5 percent, for a total of $6.1 million. The chamber attributes that figure to the opening and success of The Inn and Links at Spanish Bay and the Carmel Valley Ranch Resort.

The chamber said the year-round occupancy on the peninsula is estimated at 71 percent, making it one of the nation's highest occupancy rates.

Big-time stuff... All Saints' Episcopal Day School Headmistress Laurie Boone has been named the 1989 private schools recipient of the prestigious National Distinguished Principal Award.

Boone's selection was based on criteria set by the National Association of Elementary School Principals and the U.S. Department of Education. Boone, who has served as principal for the past 12 years, was nominated for the honor by the National Association of Episcopal Schools and is one of the only three principals nationwide to receive this year's award.

In mid-October, Boone will travel to Washington, D.C. for two days of activities planned to honor and bring national recognition to the more than 50 respected educators chosen by each state, District of Columbia, private and overseas schools.

"My philosophy of education is the same as my vision for All Saints' Episcopal Day School," says Boone. "The implementation of my philosophy has been a team effort shared among members of the parish, board of trustees, administration, faculty and parent and student bodies."

Music to your ears

IF YOU'RE one of those people who listen to tapes or compact discs whenever you get in your car, or perhaps who listen to distant radio stations or don't listen to anything, this column is written for you. The Central Coast boasts a host (now say that real fast three times), of radio stations worthy of review, offering diverse formats that will please everyone's taste. C'mon and give them a try!

KBOQ (KBACH) offers — you guessed it from their call letters — all classical music favorites at 92.7 FM throughout Monterey, Salinas and Santa Cruz. Their towers are located in the Hidden Hills subdivision at the "antenna farm," along with a number of other farm animals and a few other radio station antenaes. They also broadcast in the San Jose area on 101.7.

KBACH went on the air in April, 1982 and has carried the same format since its inception, broadcasting original programming live 24 hours a day. David Lee, general manager, attributes the success of the station to tailoring the music to cater to local listeners' cultural and artistic backgrounds. He mentions that the station has consistently been the highest rated classical music station in the U.S. by the industry source.

Among other community oriented programming, KBACH will be taping and broadcasting the Monterey County Symphony concert series in the 1989-90 season. They are also the official station of the Carmel Bach Festival, and are one of the sponsors of the Carmel Music Society, which brings top name classical performers to the Sunset Center. Eugenia Zookerman will be one such performer during the 1990 season.

Dave reminds us that it is very chic nowadays to include at least a few classical selections in one's musical collection. He finds that the KBACH audience is comprised primarily of professionals between 35 and 65 who are very active in the community and typically are the decision makers.

The KBACH offices and on-air broadcasting studio are located at 498 Alvarado in Monterey; the studio is at street level so you can stroll by and see them at work. Don't expect the staff to be nibbling on tea and crumpets just because they are THE local classical music station. These staffers are energetic, enthusiastic, and are even planning to participate (along with a majority of other local TV, radio and print-media personalities) in the Monterey Peninsula Chamber's media softball challenge on Sept. 24, 1 p.m. at El Estero Park (behind El Estero Lake). Come on down and check out the action!

Call Michael Dock, David Lee or any of the KBACH staff at 375-0927.

KDON at 102.5 FM plays a mix of hot new top 40 hits along with all the biggest hits from last year. Their format is known in the industry as "comtemporary hit radio." They are 18,500 watts strong from their tower located at the top of Fremont Peak between Monterey and Gilroy. Originally, KDON was exclusively AM when it began broadcasting in this area in the 1940s.

Pat Whitaker, acting general manager, says that the morning show is a flagship of the station, hosted by Walt Jackson. Walt deals with his listeners one-on-one, and it's like riding to work with a friend. He does a host of characters and has an off-the-wall sense of humor. Lisa Foxx (who, I'm told, really is "foxy"), joins Walt periodically throughout the morning show, then carries on solo from 10 to noon.

Jamie Hyatt, who doubles as the program director, is on the air from noon to 3, and he encourages those of us at work to tune in; there are a number of contests going on throughout the day, which explains why KDON has been referred to as "the vacation station."

The KDON Road Show consists of a 50-foot semi-tractor trailer, completely equipped as a full broadcasting studio. The road show travels to special events throughout the area. Hope you caught the Road Show in Marina Sept. 8 for the Boy Scout Council promo. A portion of the sales of French fries went to the BSC. The Road Show is a super attraction-getter, since everyone wants to be on the radio and say "hi" to Mom.

Feel free to call the KDON staff at 649-1732.

KMBY is a leading rock station, carrying a mixture of two formats: album oriented rock (30 percent of the time) and rock from the '60s, '70s and '80s the other 70 percent of the time. They are ranked the highest in the area for reaching adult listeners aged 25 to 54 from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday.

They have a delightful variety of special programming, such as featuring Reggae from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sundays; Two for Tuesday featuring an older career piece from an artist, then playing a more current piece from the same artist; and No-repeat Thursday, featuring never playing the same song twice from midnight to midnight.

Bret Harris is the morning man, from 5:30 to 10 a.m. and girls, pay attention to this: his claim to fame is having been featured about 18 months ago in Playgirl Magazine as one of the 10 sexiest male DJs in the whole country! Might be interesting to tune in and listen to that sexy voice each morning.

Rich Berlin is the program director, and he's been at the station since 1982. He's the resident rock 'n' roll expert, having personal friendships with Jimmy Hendrix, Carlos Santana, the Doobie Brothers, and Alice Cooper, who recently dropped by to see Rich, to name a few.

As long as I had Rich on the phone, and since I am dying to see the Stones at Oakland in November, I had to inquire about any upcoming contests in which tickets to the event were being offered. Sure enough, KMBY is inviting its listeners to send in suggestions for a contest that would give all their listeners a fair opportunity to vie for tickets. Keep in mind that their listeners reside in Santa Cruz to Aptos, Hollister, etc. as well as the peninsula, so don't suggest "the first listener to be at Del Monte Center after this announcement." Of course, my suggestion would be to limit the contest to female business attorneys who have offices in Carmel, but I'm sure SOMEBODY would find that unfair!

Seriously, the station is inviting suggestions now through September, and the contest will probably take place during the greater portion of October, so send your ideas to KMBY at No. 8 Harris Court in the new Monterey Research Park.

In addition to contests, KMBY is a concert and promotion station, extensively involved in charitable events. The nationally renowned station is committed to the community. Call anytime to arrange for a tour of their facilities or for any other information at 649-7500.

(This bi-weekly column is a service of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce "Buy Peninsula First" campaign, a joint project of the Economic Development Committee and the Small Business Committee. 0-19 dry spell ends for CHS football team

By DAVID LELAND

IF CARMEL High School's head football coach, Craig Johnston, is as good an athletic director as he is a prophet, the Padres are in great shape for the current football season.

Before a 26-18 victory in last Friday's opening game against the Harbor High Pirates, Johnston predicted victory.

"This is the first game the seniors are going to win," said Johnston, who took over the helm from Jeff Wright last April. "We have practiced to win every game we play."

Not a bad prediction, considering the Padres had dropped 19 straight before winning the season opener in Santa Cruz. For many of the seniors on the team it was their first win as high school football players.

On further examination, however, Johnston appears to be less a seer than a bonafide winner. During his stint as quaterback at St. Paul's High School in Santa Fe Springs, he guided the team to a 51-3 record. Later, he led Cal Poly SLO to a Division II national title.

"He knows how to win and he knows what it takes," said senior defensive back Mini Plata, one of the players who had never won a game at the school before last week.

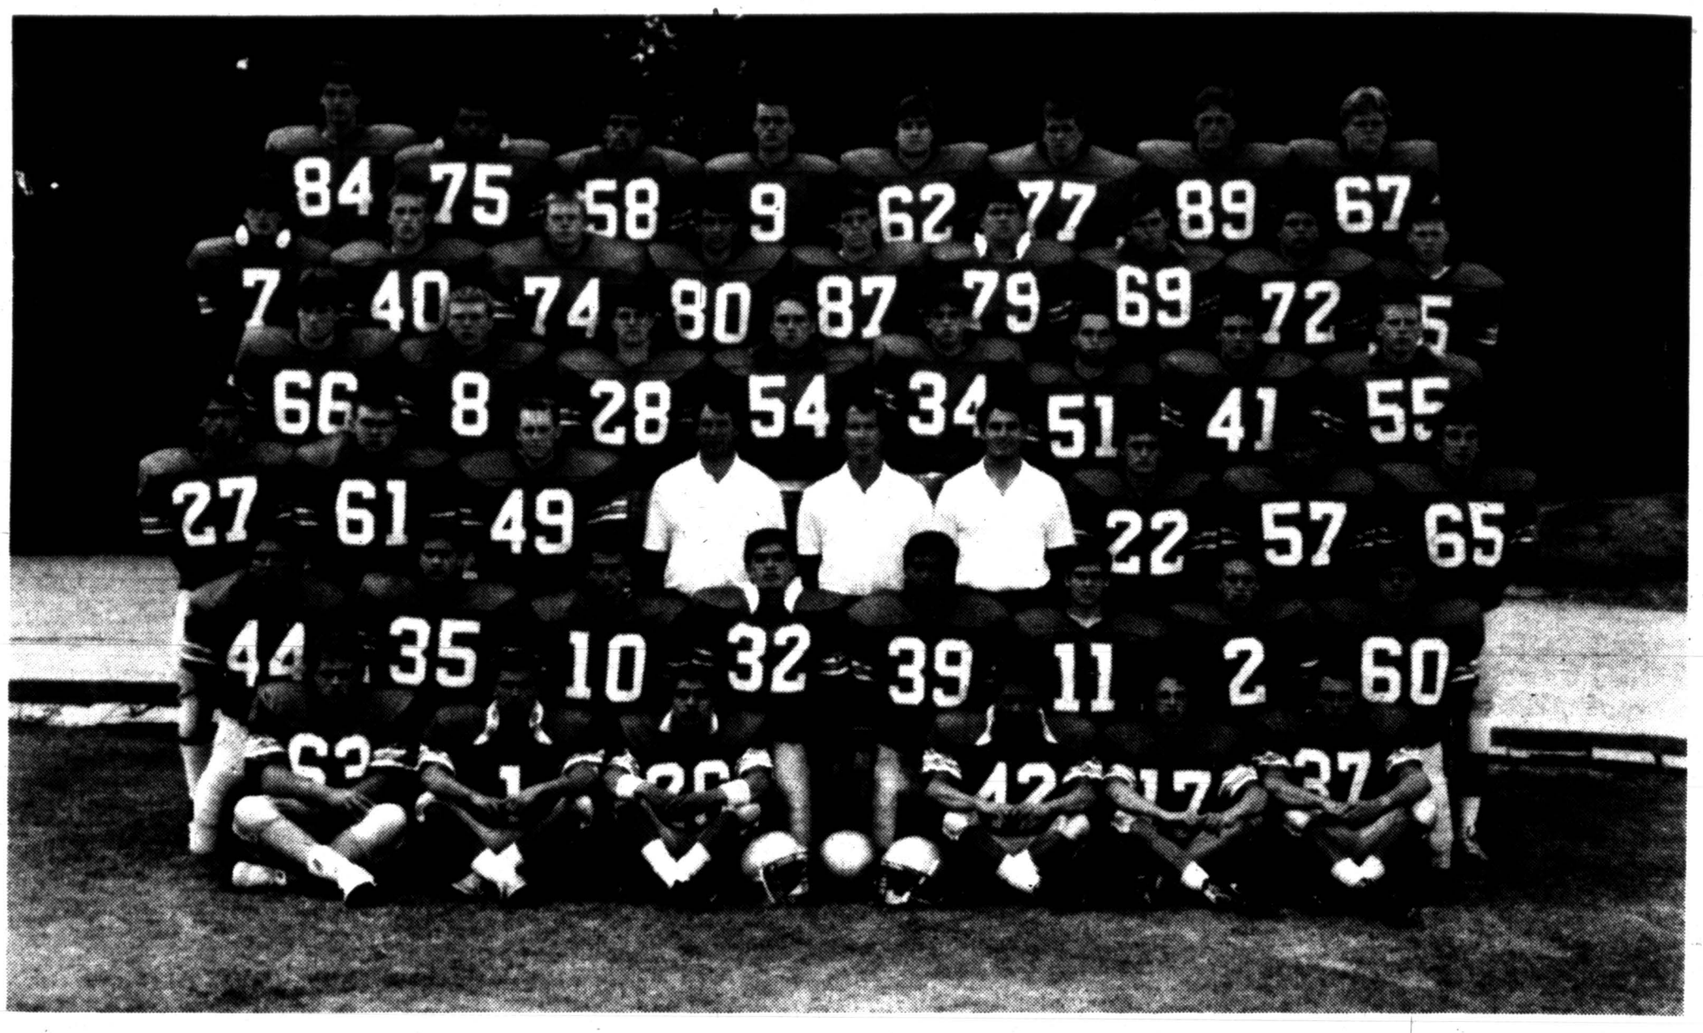
Shortly after taking over the team, Johnston instituted a weight-training program for the players — the first step to being competitive.

Assisted by offensive-defensive line coach Mark Spindler and receiver-defensive back coach Mike Kelly, Johnston then devised a simplified play book consisting of only 17 plays.

'He knows how to win and he knows what it takes.'
— Mini Plata

"We want to try and have the kids be assertive, rather than think and be tentative," said Johnston, adding that the typical professional football team has about 100 plays in its bag of tricks.

Assertive they were against Harbor High, as senior Devon Meheen rushed for 226 yards and junior running back Dan Kurz, who only carried the ball six times, scored three touchdowns on short bursts from five yards or less.



THE CARMEL High School varisty football team celebrated victory last week, and promises to bring back the winning tradition to the school.

The Padre defense then shut the door on Harbor High, allowing only a gain of one yard on the ground the entire game, and only eight first downs for the whole game.

Realistically, Johnston doesn't expect to sweep the division, and is relying on 28 incoming freshmen to provide strength in the years to come.

"It will take three years to show our true direction," he said, referring to the time it takes to learn correct terminology and technique.

IN THE meantime, Johnston will field the best of his 45-man roster in hopes of staying on the winning track.

"I've got to put the best guys our there," he said, of the idea that not everybody gets to play. "That's the hardest thing about this job — they hired me to make those decisions."

Johnston makes his decisions while sequestered in a converted storage room adjacent to the boy's gym. Two chalkboards grace the walls, a grey metal desk, white phone and two worn-out couches complete the spartan theme.

And while Johnston may agonize over who will play in some positions, one player who is an automatic choice is senior Peter Komposch.

At 6-feet-2½-inches tall and 240 pounds, Komposch appears quite intimidating to other players as he lines up in his positions as offensive and defensive tackle.

Johnston said that, because of his physical prowess, Komposch could get away with poor technique. Instead, the star stresses technique in his workout more than any other player.

With that in mind, Johnston is recommending Komposch to major universities, in hopes of landing him a scholarship.

"It's my job to get him a free education," he said.

The next game is set for 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16 at Carmel High School, with the Padres playing Santa Cruz High School.

SEPTIC TANK ALERT

Health and water resources authorities agree that because drought conditions throughout most of Northern California, minimal rainfall, and lowering of the water-table, affluent from improperly maintained septic tanks may contaminate well water and local water supply.

An enzyme septic tank conditioner, used regularly according to manufacturer's instructions, will stimulate bacteria action, liquify solids and grease, eliminate odor, and assure clear non-contaminated affluent flowing into the drain field.

Regular use of SEPTONIC septic tank conditioner can eliminate the necessity for pumping the tank.

SEPTONIC is pleased to sponsor this program for septic tank maintenance and your health.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

Short-term water supply

IN LAST month's column, I focused on the advantages and disadvantages of desalination as a water supply source for the Monterey Peninsula. I also noted that desalination was being considered as part of the district's "Interim Water Supply Program," and promised to keep you abreast of the latest developments. Today's column does just that.

Before I discuss short-term supply, it is important that you know that building a dam for water supply, drought reserve and environmental enhancement remains the district's top priority. Because it will take many years to bring any dam on line, the purpose of the Interim Supply Program is to tide us over until a dam is built.

WHAT WE WANT

What makes a good Interim Project? The district board wants to develop projects that are relatively inexpensive, entail little red tape and can be constructed in a relatively short amount of time. Their purpose would be primarily drought reserve with some supply for short-term planned growth. Thus, residents would be protected from rationing and the economy would not be disrupted.

Depending on the size and type of project, relief to the lower Carmel Valley environment would also be a benefit. I might add that the "short-term" description is somewhat of a misnomer, because these projects can continue on for many years.

CREATIVE CONCEPTS

Creative thinkers on the district board and staff, as well as civic-minded citizens have developed numerous concepts for short-term water supply options. They include desalination, new wells in undeveloped areas (either within or outside the district boundaries), better use of subpotable supplies (e.g., park irrigation using Lake El Estero water), a district-wide toilet retrofit program, reclamation and/or recharge in areas other than Del Monte Forest (a project there is in progress), increasing river runoff via prescribed burns and water salvaging by removing river vegetation.

INTERIM PROJECTS COMMITTEE

All these concepts will be seriously reviewed by staff and selected board members at three special Interim Projects Committee meetings. The meetings are open to the public, but you should note that their primary purpose is to receive technical information from experts in each of the above fields. Local agency representatives will provide information on permits that may be required to implement various projects. Written questions and ideas from the public will be accepted for comment by the technical experts and district staff. Be technical in nature.

Once the workshops are over, staff will review all the information received from both experts and members of the public (some of whom are experts too!). In December 1989, a special public hearing will be held by the district board. Board members will consider staff's recommendation for a comprehensive Interim Projects Plan. The plan will outline which projects should be built in what order to provide for our near-term needs. Public opinion will be welcome at this public hearing.

MEETING SCHEDULE

When will all this happen? The first meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. at the Monterey Elk's Lodge on Mar Vista Drive. It will focus solely on desalination. The second meeting, scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 5 (same time and place), will focus on toilet retrofit programs, reclamation and subpotable water supplies. The third meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. at the Oldemeyer Center in Seaside. It will focus on potential sites for new wells, controlled burns and water salvaging. Mark your calendars and watch your local papers for more information!

For more information on the Interim Supply Program, contact Margo Nottenkamper, the program coordinator, at 649-4866 during business hours.

California Indian baskets shown

California Indian baskets taken from the museum's collection will be shown through Oct. 22 in the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History.

Admission is free to the museum, located at 165 Forest Ave. in Pacific Grove. On Sunday, Oct. 8, Lawrence Dawson, associate research anthropologist of the University of California, Berkeley, will lecture on California Indian basketry. The program begins at 2:30 p.m. For details, call 372-4212.

Bring own water to Molera Park

Drinking or potable water is no longer available in the Andrew Molera State Park, located on the Big Sur Coast.

In the past, potable water was provided by "water buffaloes." The old military metal water tanks on wheels no longer meet state health standards for drinking water and have been removed from the park.

Campers and day users should plan on bringing their own drinking water. Drinking water is available at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park and Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park.

For further information, contact the Big Sur District Office at 667-2315.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

Presidential power

The President of the United States shall "...take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

US Constitution

AMERICANS APPEAR to have developed an expansive opinion of Presidential power. It is not uncommon to hear, or to read in Letters to the Editor, the opinion that whatever the president does is legal by the very act of his having done it. The Executive Branch has been growing in power over the years, but this concept grants to it monarchial aspects from which we sought to disassociate ourselves in 1776. The truth is, the president of the United States must obey the law.

"Crime is contagious," said Justice Louis Brandeis in 1928. "If the government becomes the lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for the law."

Perhaps many Americans have lost their understanding of what law is in this country. In its simplest form, federal law consists of statutes passed by the Congress, signed by the president and, when challenged, tested and confirmed in the courts. Popular presidents traditionally have been given wide latitude by the people to exercise their executive power in a popular cause. Franklin Roosevelt received a near dictatorial mandate in his war on the Great Depression, and using this mandate, he exercised powers which were repeatedly struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court as unconstitutional.

The popularity of a president, or of an issue, is not a sound basis for expanding presidential power. It is safer in the long run to maintain a consistent constitutional view of the limits of executive power. An example of why such consistency is important can be demonstrated by reversing the situation in Iran-Contra. Because President Reagan's actions were directed at the release of American hostages in Lebanon, and against a Communist-supported government in Nicaragua, conservatives tend to justify actions by Oliver North which violated a law passed by Congress and signed by the president.

What would be their reaction, however, had the reverse situation been the case. If Congress had appropriated money for the Contras and instructed the president to use it, and had the president been opposed to such aid and spent the money elsewhere, lying to Congress about it, how then would conservatives have judged the use of executive power? Such actions do not lend themselves to a coherent foreign policy. Only chaos is the result of such a policy. The Constitution grants foreign policy functions not to the president alone, but to the president and Congress jointly, and federal laws require the president to confer with congressional leaders on such decisions. There are traditional objections to this power sharing, often raised by the Executive Branch. Let's examine three of the most popular.

Time is of the essence. The president must be able to act on his own in circumstances where the security interests of the United States require immediate action.

Such instances are expected to be rare, but neither Congress nor the public deny the president's authority to take action unilaterally in these circumstances. The president, however, under the law, must confer with Congress after the act and explain his action. These are expected to be acts of major national import, of short duration and notification of Congress is expected to occur quickly.

Secrecy. The need for secrecy is often used to justify unauthorized or illegal acts by the executive.

A president must share his reasons for acting with congressional leaders to insure we have one, consistent foreign policy. The best decisions are not made in secret rooms; they are subjected to examination and debate, if only among the leadership of the two branches of government. As for secrecy, "The Ship of State is the only vessel which leaks from the top." According to the Washington press corps Oliver North, not Congress, turned out to be the biggest source of leaks in Washington.

The President possesses more information. This argument assumes only the president knows all the aspects of what is going on.

When that is the case, the President has the obligation to share that information with congressional leaders so that others may judge the actions proposed and offer their views. The best example of a successful application of this concept is the Cuban Missile Crisis, where President Kennedy brought in congressional leaders, and many government officers at various levels, to hammer out a cohesive approach of near unanimous proportions.

Where laws cannot be changed by legitimate means, there are two fundamental approaches to an unpopular law. One is covert action to circumvent the law in question, essentially "illegal acts." The other is overt action in direct violation of the law, or "civil disobedience." In the former "illegal acts," we seek to avoid the consequences of our deeds by acting in a clandestine manner and there is no intent to suffer the consequences of the act. In the latter, "civil disobedience," we openly violate the law and seek to force society to inflict the consequences of our actions upon us as a further demonstration of the law's injustice. The differences in these approaches are matters of conscience and conviction.

In many countries these are the only alternatives available to those who disagree with the law, but in the United States we have the mechanism to change the law. It is often frustratingly slow, but it is our faith in, and our willingness to persevere in, those constitutional processes that sets our system of government apart from those, who have given only lip service to their constitutions.

Compare the actions of President Kennedy in the missile crisis, where all the supposed reasons for acting alone were present, but where instead, cooperative government action was implemented and led to a unified and successful American policy, to those of Iran-Contra, where the same reasons were cited by President Reagan for a "go-it-alone" policy by the Executive Branch, which ended in chaos and embarrassment.

No matter how popular our president, it is to the rule of law, not men, that we must adhere.

Fall festivities

WITH THE summer fog lifting, those summer vacations only memories, the guest rooms fresh out of out-of-town visitors, and the summer doldrums gone (if there is such a thing on the MP), the fall festivities are beginning with a flourish.

Social addicts will be able to fill their cravings and their social calendars with plays, poetry, intellectual pursuits, dinners and dancing, fashion shows, and teas to attend and hordes of hors d'oeuvres and wines to taste.

That's not to mention the many sparkling annual events. Sadly, the California Challenge Polo Match scheduled for Sept. 24 has been cancelled due to drought conditions. With lack of water for the polo field it would be too hazardous to play. Pity.

Looking on the brighter side, Artie Early is engrossed in finalizing the three-day table-theater event for Hospice known by its copyrighted name "Tablescapes." Fifty fabulous tablesettings and design vignettes will decorate the ballroom at the Conference Center Oct. 6,7, and 8. The Preview Gala on the 6th (at $50 per), goes on you social must list.

We all entertain in one way or another and we love to see what celebrities, interior designers and artists can conjure up in a moment of creative passion.

Of course, you will be chatting with all your friends at the gala so you'll have to return on Saturday or Sunday in order to take it all in. On those two days, a bonus is in store. Suzanne Hamilton, author and tabletop designer, will lecture at 10:30 each morning, which is included in the $5 entry fee.

What a dilemma! "What a Wonderful World," featuring champagne brunch, animals, fashions and art (an SPCA fund-raiser), is set for that same weekend — Oct. 8. "What A" moves outside for al fresca dining and viewing at Quail Lodge's Carmel Valley Country Club.

Animal rights advocate, Ms. Doris Day, was asked to tread the runway in the latest fashions from R. K. Shugart, Chattan's, and Vendetti, but she prefers to sit and enjoy the show. Another local celebrity, Kim Novak, will model designs by her sister, Arlene Malmborg, from her label Arlee M of Comfort Concepts.

Other models from the area will be accompanied by homeless pets from the SPCA shelter with their eyes rolling soulfully, hoping to find a good home. This event was so well-attended last year that they have raised the price to $75 this year. To reserve phone SPCA.

September dates are filling up at record rates. Ikebana International with the motto, "Friendship Through Flowers" will hold a luncheon in a Monterey home on Sept. 19. If you wish to attend, see the floral arrangements and/or join this friendship/flowers club. You may reserve by calling 373-4691 or 633-2616.

If the theatre bug is burrowed hopelessly under your skin, you are invited to the "First Annual September's Song" given by Monterey County Cultural Council (MCCC) at Forest Theater Sept. 24. This is a dinner/buffet, dancing and one-time satirical musical revue Tom Foolery by Tom Lehrer (presented by Stephen Moorer and Harvey Landa). The $30 tab will support MCCC, which takes a leadership role in promoting the arts in our county. Dress for this occasion is creative, casual and warm. Don't fool around too long before calling to reserve: 649-5561 or 424-3043.

September will end with "A Flair For Fashion" at noon on the 30th. That dynamite Professional Women's Network sponsors and Susan Block will present clothing and accessory fashions at a luncheon at Monterey Hotel Resort (formerly The Hilton). Send $15 checks to PWN, Box 222508, Carmel 93922 by the 25th.

This fashion event follows the "Open House 7th Birthday Party" for the Pro Women's Network on the 19th. If you wish to learn more about the PWN or just help them celebrate, you are cordially invited to the Crossroads Community Room at 6:45 p.m. on the 19th.

Two occasions to nibble food and sip wines are coming up this month and next. "A Taste of Carmel" sponsored by The Highlands Inn Sept. 26. While nibbling on tasty bites from 20 of Carmel's finest restaurants and sipping wines from Ventana Vineyards, you can sing along with our singing sheriff, entertainer extraordinaire Pat Duval.

Patricia Wester's RLS student ballet/poetry group, the Forest Theater, Frohman Academy and harpist Edwina Bain Vasco will fill out the entertainment bill for the evening. David Armanasco will conduct the live auction, which will offer such items as parties, limo service and even 20 Christmas gifts all wrapped and ready. RSVP to Carmel Business Assn ($25) by Sept. 15th.

October is the month chosen for the Eighth Santa Catalina Wine Tasting & Auction. The tasting begins at 4:30 Saturday the 14th, and David Armanasco will coax bids higher and higher at 7. There is a $35 donation requested.

If "towering poets" or "poets in towers" are of interest, Tor House holds the Robinson Jeffers Festival Oct. 13, 14, and 15. Mr. Jeffers, who built the famous Hawk Tower, is Carmel's most famous poet.

Howard Nemerov, novelist, critic and U.S. Poet Laureate said, "Poetry is getting something right in language." Tor House is getting things right by inviting Mr. Nemerov to be after-dinner speaker. Reservations for the festival dinner,

ARTISTS OF traditional Chinese painting whose works are on display at the Carmel Foundation included Dorothea Hooper, Hap Minnis, Mary Marble and Elizabeth Wolfenden, all students of Alison Stilwell Cameron.

PACIFIC GROVE artist Frances Thompson (left), was joined by fans Mrs. Lin Min-Chiang and Kay Von Saltza as they admired her Chinese paintings during a reception at the Carmel Foundation.

MIIS STUDENT Hu Qian joined artists Gisela Embree and Nancy Thompson at a reception for students of Chinese painting.

HOSPITALITY CHAIRMAN for Asia Art Museum, Valera Lyles brought out a tray of sashimi to the Japanese garden of Marsh & Co.

BILL BATES showed off a painting he did of a Fijian parrot as Polly Kenaston of Salon VI observed. (Chuck Scardina photos.)

seminars, book signing, poetry walks, etc. may be made by calling Tor House.

Knowing that many of you non-profit volunteers would like to increase membership, pep up fund-raising and bring greater awareness to the community, here's a suggestion. Attend "Publicity and Public Relations for Non-Profit Organizations" given by Donna Marek Sept. 20 (6-9 p.m.) at Cabrillo College, Aptos.

Ms. Marek, who has written for magazines and newspapers, produced and written for television, is known for her work with not-for-profit groups and for her work with international celebrities. Call Cabrillo at 479-6226 or 688-2075. The $55 cost will come back manyfold.

Art is always in the air on the Monterey Peninsula and prominent over the weekend was Asian art — both Chinese and Japanese. Alison Stilwell Cameron, artist and teacher of traditional Chinese painting, had planned to visit to four cities in China in June. The show was put together at the request of the Beijing Institute of Traditional Chinese Painting, the Chinese Ministry of Culture and Deng Yingchao, the widow of former Premier Zhou Enlai.

Mrs. Cameron had prepared a book of local Chinese art students and their paintings to show Chinese artists. The trip was abruptly postponed due to the student uprising. She still hopes to make the trip at a later date, but in the meantime, she opened an exhibit of the 10 artists at Carmel Foundation.

Showing quality paintings of unusual high quality are Bonnie Culp, Sylvia Fraley, Dorothea Hooper, Mary Marble, Hap Minnis, Betty Paynter, Frances Thompson (of PG), Nancy Thompson (of N.J.), and Betty Woolfenden. All are students of Mrs. Cameron. Gisela Embree, a teacher and artist from Aptos, was also included.

The tea, tea sandwiches, cookies and artistic viewing were all delicious.

Art Asia Museum takes the credit for bringing an unprecedented show of Japanese Hirado porcelains to G.T. Marsh & Co. The largest collection of Hirado works ever assembled and the first show in this country since the World's Fair of 1893.

For the initial tour of the show, Philip Cardeiro (Art Asia Museum founder), introduced Mr. Ichiro Kawabata, Japanese Consul, and his wife, Megumi. Mr. Kawabata said, "Understanding between countries begins with understanding of cultures of the countries. I am pleased with this cultural exchange as it is a fine way to continue friendship." His wife told me that she was born on Dec. 25 and that her name, Megumi, means "bread of God."

After shoes that had been worn outside were exchanged for clean slides, the tour group entered the peaceful tatami-matted Japanese rooms. The Ikebana International Club supplied floral arrangements to add authenticity to the show.

This most beautiful of Japanese porcelain was started by Prince Hirado in 1596 with potters from Korea setting up kilns under his patronage. Fortunately, they found the same fine clay they had used in Korea.

After the tour, a reception was held in Marsh's Japanese Garden with sashimi furnished by the new Japanese restaurant at the Sheraton Hotel (where a private dinner in honor of the consul was held in the evening).

This stunning show of 66 pieces (probably a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity), will be traveling to other museums throughout the country. However, Art Asia Museum's exhibit of this rare porcelain will be on display at Marsh's in Monterey through Nov. 10th daily from 10-4.

Intellectual and artistic stimulation was brought to Salon VI Sunday afternoon by Carmel's witty artist/cartoonist Bill Bates. Bill, who started out by generously plugging Gus Arriolo's latest book (Gus was in the audience), has a number of books himself. He was several Carmel-by-the-Bates books and a number of Bates Goes Viking, which were done as entertainment director on Royal Viking Cruises. He showed his colorful painting "Fijian Parrot," which is the Fijiian poster that will appear in Quantas Airline magazine in January.

Bill started drawing as a child and early teenager in East Texas. He came to Carmel after several years in San Francisco doing the comic strip Ping! for the SF Examiner. He has given the gift of laughter to Carmelites through his cartoons in the Carmel Pine Cone. He plans a one-man show of his Carmel cartoons in the near future. When he asked the audience to tell him their favorites almost every hand was raised.

After talking about experiences in many ports: the smell of money in Hong Kong, the Gauguin mystique of Fiji, the beauty of New Zealand, the fun of Australia, the smog of Greece, the art of the Hermitage in Leningrad. In every port he found humor and inspiration for portraits and sketches.

He said, "I never make money on my cartoons but my books sell well." Then he generously gave away posters and books of his work.

If you were unable to acquire tickets for this Salon VI (many checks were returned because of limited seating at La Mirada), you will have another opportunity. Bill has graciously consented to return on Nov. 5. Those tickets are going like hotcakes, I'm told, so, make haste with reservations to Polly Kenaston.

The art of restoring and living in one of the famous historic homes of Monterey was the inspiration for a fund-raiser to benefit Friends of Easter Seals. Steve and Delores Gunia generously opened their home, formerly known as "The Old Gallatin Powers Estate" for a house tour. Built in 1889 by a RICK LAWRENCE, Sandi Brzovic and Kristina Pauling admired a collection of antique clothing displayed in the old Gallatin Powers estate.

Carmel man, the home had several owners before the Gunias bought it in 1985. They added an office and garage and extensively remodeled the inside into a stunning, light and airy Victorian home with authentic furnishings and decorations, including antique gowns, hats and dolls.

Mark Greisen of Los Angeles set the mood by playing on a piano that is almost as old as the home. Guests were selcomed by the charming owners, Duayne Ostergard, associate director of Easter Seals for Monterey County, Sheila Gray of Santa Cruz and Sandra Brzovic.

The spacious dining room area was laden with hors d'oeuvres, wine and punch for the guests. Easter Seal Society gives assistance to the largest minority group in the United States — the disabled.

Art is only a part of the Gentrain Society. Gentrain is not a train but a door to lifelong learning. This door opened 15 years ago and continued to open wide and wider to more and more people. Geared to the continued learning for older citizens, Gentrain courses feature literature, history, art, music, government and "the world."

Study programs of this self-governing group are held at Monterey Peninsula College and have become an integrated part of the college. So much so that it is now used as a prototype for the rest of the country.

Beginning in October such stimulating lectures as: "Seaweed Secrets," "Living in Oxford," "The Truth About Television News," "Italy," "Ethics in Government," and "The Future?" will be held Wednesday afternoons for a couple of hours.

Also offered are short courses: "New Challenges in Eastern Europe" and "Researching and Recording Community and Family History," along with trips to the LA museum and the Shakespeare Festival.

Gentrain (could it be general education train of courses?), isn't all learning. It's fun too. Dr. Arthur Benoit, society president, planned a picnic at Indian Village last weekend. With plenty of good music and good food it was a good time to relax and play.

Former Gentrain guest speakers were invited guests and seen in deep discussions were Henry Littlefield, Grant Both, Scott McClelland, Carl Pohlhammar and others. Dr. David Hopkins, Jr., president of MPC, spoke briefly before leaving to help his wife celebrate her birthday.

True Boardman, (the first local to win the Festival of Firsts playwriting contest), reminded everyone that his play Portrait of a Dream (the story of the romance of Dante Gabriel Rossetti and Lizzie Siddal), opens Sept. 21 at Sunset Center with two more performances on the 22 and 23rd.

If you haven't done so already, you may want to hop aboard the train. Gentrain, that is.

The art of entertaining was in the air when the board of Planned Parenthood of Monterey County gave a garden reception for major donors. This vital center offers good health care to women who can't afford it and is the largest screener for cancer in the area. They are in the process of becoming a private pay center due to government fund-cutting. PP Center is housed in Casa Joaquin through the generosity of George White (former owner) and other benefactors.

The reception, held in the sunny garden of Virginia Stanton, was attended by major donors Norman Packer, Jean Snow and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kalmback. Other donors attending a self-esteem self discovery seminar for teens.

TEENS: READ THIS

Step Into the Future helps you develop:

- self confidence
- effective communication skills
- leadership skills
- an on-going support system
- a positive vision for the future
- personal action plans

To begin with, Step into the Future is a fun experience. When you're there, you'll laugh, and talk and discover. You'll make new friends, and you'll find out that you aren't alone in what you've been feeling and thinking.

PARENTS: READ THIS

The Design: Step into the Future is based on a design that asserts that self-esteem is a result of a positive self-image, a sense of being able to impact one's life and one's future, the ability to stand up to conflict and confrontation, the skill to make competent choices and the strength to acknowledge mistakes and take the next step.

Thurs. & Fri. Evenings • Sat. & Sun. • Sept. 28-Oct. 1
Teen Seminar includes 4 weekly follow-up meetings

STATE LEAGUE PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS REDISTRICTING

Carole Wagner Vallianos, president of the League of Women Voters of California, will discuss redistricting and the controversial Huening Initiative at a luncheon meeting of the Monterey Peninsula League on Thursday, Sept. 14.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at First Presbyterian Church, 501 El Dorado, in Monterey. Lunch begins at noon and the meeting begins at 12:45.

There is a fee for the lunch. There is no fee for those attending the lecture only.

CHINESE COMMUNISM LECTURE SEPT. 14

"The Crisis of Chinese Communism" will be the topic of a lecture by Dr. Robert Gourlay on Thursday, Sept. 14, at 4:15 p.m., at the Crossroads Community Room, 243 Crossroads Blvd., Carmel. Gourlay, a noted expert of modern Chinese history, will discuss the events that have taken place since the tragedy of Tianamen Square, and whether the government has effectively smothered the student's reform movement.

Gourlay keeps in close contact with Chinese students in the United States and with academic figures in China who keep him current on the feelings and aspirations of the people who will influence and lead China in years to come.

Gourlay, who received his Ph.D. in modern Chinese history from Harvard, and taught that subject for 20 years at Michigan State University is recently retired and now lives in Pacific Grove.

At the conclusion of the lecture, there will be a reception for the speaker. Dim sum (Chinese appetizers) and tea will be served. The public is invited to attend the lecture without charge. Tickets for the "dim sum and tea" reception are $4, and may be purchased through the World Affairs Council, Box 83, Monterey, CA 93942. Tickets will be held at the door.

COMMODORE SLOAT CHAPTER, NSDAR PRESENTS SPEAKER

Featured speaker at the Tuesday, Sept. 19, luncheon meeting of the Commodore Sloat Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be York School headmaster, Dr. Henry Littlefield. His topic will be: "The Constitution: a Prize Earned."

The theme for the luncheon commemorates the 202nd anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution. This great document, the guardian of our liberties, established our Republic as a self-governing nation dedicated to rule by law. The United States Constitution is the oldest constitution still in active use in the world today.

Littlefield has been headmaster of The York School since 1976. He is a graduate of Trinity School in New York City and received his master's degree from Columbia College and his doctorate from Columbia University. In addition to teaching American history, he has also published articles on history, education, literary reviews, poetry and sports. He is active in local theater and a member of many local service clubs.

Program chairman for the event is Mrs. William McClendon and hostess is Mrs. Edward Flaherty. The luncheon will be held at Rancho Canada and begins at noon. For reservations, call LaVerne Underwood 372-1421.

NARFE MEETING SET FOR SEPT. 18

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees (NARFE) will meet on Monday, Sept. 18, at 1:30 p.m., at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

Kathleen Alarid Burke, R.N. of the Cardiac Wellness Program, Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, will speak on how to improve and maintain your health. She will discuss exercise, diet, risk factors in heart disease, the truth about cholesterol and fat, and how to select packaged foods.

Dessert and coffee will be served following the business meeting and program. Federal employees and retired federal employees and guests are invited.

THE COMET Brorsen-Metcalf is currently visible through binoculars or telescope as a small, fuzzy object with a short upward tail in the east-northeast sky just before dawn through Sept. 15. This photograph was taken at 5:10 on the morning of Sept. 6 from the upper Carmel Valley by Robert Webb using the 18-inch telescope of the Tularcitos Observatory. The comet is making its first appearance in Earth's skies since its discovery by T. Brorsen in 1847 and will not return again until around the year 2130.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S NETWORK HOSTS OPEN HOUSE

Professional Women's Network of the Monterey Peninsula will host an open house in the Community Room of The Crossroads on Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 6:45 p.m. to commemorate the founding of the network in 1982.

Display booths will be set up to display members' services and goods. Birthday cake and refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

"WHAT GOD HATH PROMISED"

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
All our lives thro';
God hath not promised
Sun without rain
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain
God hath not promised
We shall not know
Toil and temptation,
Trouble and woe;
He hath not told us
We shall not bear
Many a burden,
But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the laborer,
Light for the way,
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy,
Undying love.

were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton, Lowel Figen, Wolfgang Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lockwood, Mr and Mrs. Steve Kuhn and Mary Sherman. They were welcomed by board members Vicki Rosenberg, president, Victoria Gott and others, as well as Mary Rose Delgadillo (executive director of PP), and Celia Perez (development director of PP).

All food and drinks were donated. Mrs. Stanton made her famous iced tea.

The art of heartfelt thanks was not overlooked. The Central Mission Trails Chapter of American Heart Association thanked media hearts with a luncheon and golf at Rancho Canada.

Anne Wheelis, president-elect of the AHA board, gave the latest heart information and Robert Flores, media-day co-chairman, showed videos and PSAs. Tom Samarati, avid golfer and chairman of Golf Classic Tournament set for Sept. 29, spoke about the Golf Heart Classic day. Paul "Shim" LaGoy, Rancho Canada golf pro, said he is giving his full cooperation to help make the day a success. So if you are a golfer at heart sign up for the tourney at 11 a.m. and the dinner afterwards.

Media awards were given to Patricia Arias and Teresa Burgess for KSBW-TV8; Gersh Kuntzman for Coast Weekly; Judy Currier for KXDC radio; Reginald Henry for the Herald; Jack Yearwood for KSMS-TV; Robert Flores for KCBA-TV35; Doug Ameri for Fort Ord Panorama and I received the one for The Carmel Pine Cone.

An afternoon of golf awaited those who could play and the rest of us sadly went back to our writing machines to work.

The MP Chefs Association and the Lions Club of Pacific Grove combined efforts to "Swing Into Fall" with a food fair and dancing in the Monterey Sheraton Ballroom on Sunday afternoon.

Don Ferch, president of the chefs association, called attention to the silent auction items donated by association members. Dance fans have fallen in love with the music of the Moonlighters Band and follow them wherever they play. The proceeds go to the Chefs Association School and the Blind Service Center.

Temple of Carmel for the Gentrain Society at Monterey Peninsula College Lecture Forum 102 at 1:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 20.

Dr. and Mrs. Temple, residents of Carmel since 1976, maintain a second home in historic Dorchester-on-Thames, in Oxfordshire. The city was founded, according to Sydney Temple, in 634 A.D. when St. Bironus was sent as a missionary to convert West Sussex by Pope Honorius. The Temples are active in activities at the historic abbey.

Temple's presentation is open to the public and will be preceded by the serving of light refreshments.

"LIVING WITH EMPOWERMENT" LECTURE SERIES SET

Ellen Bass, co-author of the best-selling The Courage to Heal: A Guide for Woman Survivors of Child Sexual Abuse, will speak on the process of healing from child sexual abuse as part of the 1989-90 continuing edcuation series titled, "Living With Empowerment," 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14 at the Monterey Conference Center, 1 Portola Plaza in Monterey.

The series is sponsored by Model Mugging of Monterey, a supportive and specialized self-defense and empowerment program.

PARENT-INFANT EDUCATION CLASSES TO BEGIN SEPT. 26

A new series of classes called "Baby & Me" are to begin Sept. 26. The classes are offered through the Adult School of the Carmel Unified School District in conjunction with the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center ("Baby & Me I" classes) and Thunderbird for Kids ("Baby & Me II" classes).

The purpose of the classes is to provide parents with a place where they can come and have fun with their child while learning about infant development, nutrition, safety, and other related issues and while participating in activities geared to the age of their child such as songs and movement games and creative arts. In addition, the classes provide an opportunity for parents to meet other parents in similar situations, to share experiences, concerns, and support.

The instructor is Susan Newton, infant development specialist and teacher with the Carmel Unified School District. Newton has more than 10 years experience working with parents and infants.

Carmel Valley Community Youth Center will be co-sponsoring the "Baby & Me I" classes for precrawlers and crawlers. Thunderbird for Kids will be co-sponsoring the "Baby & Me II" classes for wobbly walkers and toddlers.

The schedule is as follows: "Baby & Me I," at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center Wednesdays, Sept. 27 - Dec. 13; 9 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. - crawlers (6 mos. - 14 mos.); 11:30 a.m. - 2 p.m. - precrawlers (newborn - 6 mos.)

"Baby & Me II," at Thunderbird for Kids Thursdays, Sept. 26 - Dec. 12; 9 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. - toddlers (18 mos. - 24 mos.); 11:30 a.m. - 2 p.m. - wobbly walkers (12 mos. - 18 mos.)

For further information, registration and fees, please call Kay Keller at the CUSD Adult School, 624-1714.

Off to Camelot

FATHER CHARLES Moore of Pacific Grove and Bill Pentony of Carmel (shown here with an English town crier), directors of the John Steinbeck Arthurian Society based on the Monterey Peninsula, will visit Glastonbury, England for the second time this year, where they will meet with the mayor and town council and present gifts from Mayor Morris Fisher of Pacific Grove and propose a sister city relationship between PG and Galstonbury. The goal of the two men will be to plan a memorial library to John Steinbeck in Glastonbury, the place where he said he spent the "happiest year of my life." Steinbeck's year in Glastonbury resulted in his unfinished work, The Acts of King Arthur and His Noble Knights. In 1959 Steinbeck wrote: "And so I came here, to the hills near Glastonbury which has been a holy place since people first came to it maybe 40,000 years ago...I feel more at home here than I have ever felt in my life in any place. I perceive things that truly pass all understanding."

SOVIET STUDENTS BEGIN STUDIES AT MIIS

For the first time ever, the Soviet Union is sending graduate students to study translation and interpretation in an accredited program in a Western country. Eleven graduate students from the Maurice Thorez Moscow State Institute of Foreign Languages, the premier language training school in the Soviety Union, will be attending the Monterey Institute of International Studies (MIIS) in Monterey. This bi-national program is at the forefront of U.S. and Soviet Academic exchanges.

The visiting Soviet graduate students, who started their studies Sept. 11, came to MIIS in cooperation with the Bi-Lateral Programs Office of the American Council of Teachers of Russian and the American Council for Collaboration in Education and Language Study (ACTR/ACCELS) and is supported in part by the U.S. Information Agency. At the institute, these students will be learning translation techniques and methods of consecutive and simultaneous interpretation in Russian and English. Approximately 600 other students, some 30 percent from 40 foreign nations, attend graduate studies in four academic/divisions at the institute.

"This precedent setting event is a tremendous opportunity in furthering international relations and educational exchange opportunities for our two countries and the Monterey Institute," said Bill Weber, dean of the Division of Translation and Interpretation. The institute has been training interpreters of Russian and English since 1968. The institute, in another U.S.-Soviet related program, screened and tested all American interpreters who work at verifying the implementation of the Intermediate Range Nuclear Forces Treaty between the Soviet Union and the United States.

The Monterey Institute was selected for the Soviet graduate language program because of its internationally renowned translation and interpretation program.

The students, 10 men and 1 woman, and their group leader will be staying with host American families and in apartments while studying at the Institute until Christmas.

As part of the exchange program, Dean Weber will be lecturing at the Maurice Thorez Moscow State Institute of Foreign Languages for two weeks in the spring of 1990. Also, the first group if MIIS students are expected to go to Moscow in the fall of 1990.

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION STAFF CHANGES

The Community Foundation for Monterey County has announced the hiring of Deborah Riley of Pacific Grove as the foundation's new administrative assistant. She was formerly an assistant to Gerald Harner of Christopher Weil, financial planners, and most recently a legal secretary with Bailey and Meheen. Her new position is in support of the Community Foundation's two offices in Monterey and Salinas. The foundation is a county-wide grantmaking endowment with assets of $8.3 million.

She attended De Anza College in Cupertino and has lived on the Monterey Peninsula for eight years. She is an active member of St. Timothy Lutheran Church in Monterey.

OBITUARIES

Blanche B. De Puy

Cremation took place under the direction of the Paul Mortuary, for Blanche Booth De Puy, who died Aug. 16 at Driftwood Convalescent Hospital. She was 90.

Born May 26, 1893 in Pittsburgh, she attended what was then the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

She married Col. Leopold De Puy after World War I, and spent the next several years traveling through the Southern and Western regions of the United States with her husband, who worked for the American Cities Bureau establishing local chambers of commerce.

During World War II, Mrs. De Puy served as a volunteer for the American Red Cross in Pittsburgh and also worked for the Office of Price Administration.

She lived in California for more than 20 years after her husband's death in 1948. In 1974 she moved to Westhampton, Mass., with her daughter, and came to Carmel in 1987.

Surviving is her daughter, Dr. Ida Blanche De Puy of Carmel.

The family requests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Paralyzed Veterans Association of America or to the donor's favorite charity.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family requests that any memorial contributions be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Ray Lugo

Graveside services took place Aug. 22 at El Camino Cemetery, for Ray Lugo of Pebble Beach, who died Aug. 18 at his home. He was 70.

Born Aug. 3, 1919 in San Jose, Mr. Lugo came to the peninsula in the late 1930s. For 45 years he owned and operated Lugo's Shell Station in Pacific Grove until his retirement in 1983.

He was a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and of the Monterey County Sheriff's Posse and participated in several parades. He also was known for his parade appearances with his horse, "Silver," and his dog, "Coco."

Survivors include his wife, Roberta; three sons, Richard of Carmel, and Kerry and David of Pacific Grove; a daughter, Kathi Hamaker of Seaside; five brothers and sisters; and eight grandchildren.

Ethel Jopp Currie

Funeral services took place Aug. 18 at New Dublin Presbyterian Church in Virginia, followed by interment at the church's cemetery, for Ethel Jopp Currie, who died Aug. 14 in Lynchburg. She was 90.

Born Oct. 24, 1898 in Niagara Falls, N.Y.; she was a long-time resident of Del Mesa Carmel. She graduated from Buffalo State Normal School and later taught in New York.

She was the widow of Lauchlin M. Currie, who was prominent in the nuclear energy field.

Survivors include two daughters, Helen Catherine Currie of New York City and Christian MacLaurin Currie of Lynchburg, Va.; and several nieces and nephews.

Marion P. Naber

Private family services were planned for Marion Phillips Naber, a resident of Carmel Valley for 26 years before moving to Palo Alto last November, who died Aug. 16 in a Menlo Park convalescent hospital. She was 89.

Born Dec. 26, 1899 in Chicago, she was a graduate of the University of Illinois and was selected by Flo Ziegfeld as one of its eight beauty queens in the 1920s.

During World War II, Mrs. Naber was a driver for the American Women's Volunteer Service. She later became a volunteer at Christopher House in Chicago, a church-sponsored home for children and unmarried mothers.

After moving to Carmel Valley in 1962, she and her husband became members of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the Carmel Foundation.

Survivors include her husband of 64 years, Fred M. Naber of Palo Alto; sons Fred P. Nabor of Menlo Park and Robert A. Nabor of Salinas; five grandchildren; and two great-granddaughters.

Following cremation, inurnment took place at El Carmelo Cemetery in Pacific Grove.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Gail Roy Fraties

Memorial services and cremation took place Sept. 7 in Anchorage, Alaska, for Superior Court Judge Gail Roy Fraties, who died Aug. 30 at his home in Bethel, Alaska. He was 61.

Born March 1, 1928 in Carmel, he was the son of Roy C. Fraties, a former chief of police in Carmel who later became an FBI investigator.

After service in Korea, Judge Fraties studied at Stanford University and the American Institute for Foreign Trade. He spent a decade in international management, with assignments in Australia and Venezuela.

He entered law school at the University of San Francisco in 1965, and had joined the district attorney's office in Juneau, Alaska, by late 1968.

After leaving the District Attorney's office, he spent a brief period as a private defense attorney before becoming assistant district attorney in Anchorage. He was appointed to the Superior Court bench by Alaska Gov. Bill Sheffield on May 22, 1986.

He was a member of the California, Hawaii and Alaska bar associations, and a member of the board of governors of the Alaska Bar, and its vice president from 1983-86.

He had been a lecturer on trial tactics to police organizations, and prosecution and defense attorneys alike. His column, "All My Trials," which appeared regularly in the Bar Rag (official publication of the Alaska Bar), had a wide following among Alaska lawyers and judges, and has been reprinted in Alaska newpapers as well as state and national bar publications.

Survivors include his wife, Bernice; four daughters, Valerie Breeze of Cheney, Wash., Jessica Pierre and Lucinda Fraties of Hawaii, and Cynthia Lee of Alaska; a brother, Arvid Fraties of San Carlos; a sister, Fordre Weiser of Hecker Pass; his stepfather, Clel Barnes of Seattle; a cousin, Elayne Chanslor of Carmel; and six grandchildren.

A memorial service, including scattering of ashes at sea, will take place in Carmel at a future date in October.

C. Squire Hurst

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, under the direction of the Paul Mortuary, for C. Squire Hurst of Carmel, who died Aug. 28 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 71.

Born June 5, 1918 in Bridgeport, Conn., he graduated from Keene High School in New Hampshire and DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind., where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He also attended Stanford University's advanced management training course.

During World War II, Mr. Hurst served as a Navy carrier pilot in the Pacific Theater and rose to the rank of lieutenant commander by the end of the war.

He retired from R.R. Donnelly & Son of Chicago in 1972 after 25 years with the firm. He had lived in Carmel for the past 17 years.

Surviving are a son, Gregory of East Brunswick, N.J.; a daughter, Karen Hammer of Detroit; a sister, Alta Varney of South Strafford, Vt.; his mother, Esther Gregory of Vermont; and four grandchildren.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions go to the Winthrop Bean Theater Scholarship Fund, in care of Alta Varney, P.O. Box 94, South Stafford, Vt. 0507.

Geraldine M. Smith

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, for Gerladine M. Smith of Carmel, a former Carmel City Councilwoman and active community leader, who died Sept. 1 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 73.

Born Nov. 17, 1915 in San Francisco, she had been a Carmel resident for the past 44 years.

She was one of the children tested in Louis Terman's classic study of gifted children and after graduating from Hollywood High School, she attended the University of Washington for one year.

Mrs. Smith served as president of the Carmel PTA in 1949 and as a member of the City Council from 1952 to 1956.

She also served as chairwoman of the Democratic Party in the 13th Congressional District in 1954, the first woman elected to that position.

She was a member of the board of the Carmel by-the-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross, secretary of the Monterey County grand jury, a member of the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula Auxiliary for 15 years, a member of the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters and the Carmel Foundation.

Survivors include her husband, William Arley Smith; a son, Craig of Marblehead, Mass.; two daughters, Suzanne Crary of Redwood City, and Sandra Griswold of San Francisco, and two grandchildren.

At her request, no services took place.

The family prefers that any memorial contributions be sent to the Alzheimer's Association, Monterey County Chapter, 381 High St., Monterey 93940, or to the SHARE program, 1295 LaSalle Ave., Seaside 93955.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Japan is looking to the United States for insights into special living arrangements for the elderly. The concept is new to that country, where the number of aging people is growing rapidly. Traditionally, elderly Japanese parents lived with family, cared for in most cases by a daughter-in-law. But today's daughter-in-law is likely to be in the work force. Also, space is limited in contemporary housing. This has led to the introduction of nursing homes and retirement communities. Architects, administrators, nurses and others have been visiting the United States to see how established American facilities operate.

The United States Census Bureau, in the latest look at its crystal ball, sees the number of people 65 and older increasing to 39.4 million in the year 2010, and swelling to 65.6 million in 2030. Such projections, useful to government agencies in planning ahead, usually are fairly reliable for up to 20 years. After that, the crystal ball is subject to many variables.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Few complaints valid

Carmel Pine Cone
Sept. 13, 1979

A cartoon in the New Yorker shows Noah standing in the bow of the ark with all the animals facing him and he says, "Now hear this. For the sake of morale when afloat, I am requesting that you refrain from unnecessary bleating, braying, squeaking, screeching, mooning, neighing, grunting, growling, barking, howling, chirping, hooting, clucking, hissing and quacking."

O Lord, may we Carmelites, both the ruling nobles and the serfs, refrain from all unnecessary bleating, bragging, complaining and all the other verbal noise that can disturb the tranquility and peace of the lives of those around us.

Finally, may we realize that most of the time our complaints are as valid as the howl of a coyote baying at the moon.

We are like the Ozark mountain hillbilly sitting on the picket fence yelling. When asked why, he replies, "I'm sittin' on a nail and I'm too lazy to git off."

Pop goes the festival

THE WHEELS are spinning madly down at nerve center for the upcoming Monterey Pop Music Festival, slated for the Monterey Fairgrounds Sept. 29-30 and Oct. 1 with an eclectic lineup.

"It's just been real crazy the last week," said Mike Evans of Monarch Entertainment (based in Pacific Grove), which was brought in a couple of weeks ago to shore up the sagging entertainment lineup for the festival. "What we're trying to do is put in place certain people that the talent could be comfortable with so they could feel it's all above board."

What that means is Monarch Entertainment is trying to line up high-powered and high visibility entertainment lawyers, accountants and PR firms so that it can attract the type of big-name talent that the festival desperately needs to pull in ticket-buyers from beyond Monterey County. The festival boasts of "over 60 acts performing on four different stages and over 100 craft and food booths" during the three-day "history making event."

The biggest names of the 35 acts touted so far include Jerry Lee Lewis, Chick Corea, Jeff Healey Band, Richie Havens, War, Tim Weisberg, Sam Kinison and Billy Preston. So far no other "major" acts have been officially announced, but rumors have been rampant. Everyone from Chicago and Jefferson Airplane to (believe it or not), The Who, have been mentioned.

A lot of the rumors stem from the fact that this festival is similarly named and is being put on at the same site of the famous 1967 Monterey Pop Festival, from which Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin and The Who exploded on the national scene. In fact, a lot of the acts that performed at that historic event are still performing, including Canned Heat and Big Brother & the Holding Company, acts that have been officially confirmed to play the 1989 event.

But Monarch Entertainment is working with a decided handicap.

"We're beefing up the talent, but only as much as we can because of the time constraints," said Evans, who was brought in less than a month before showtime. "The one thing we are fighting is time. We'll concentrate on what we have and make a major push on what's there."

Evans added that the LA connection has not reaped too many rewards so the festival will definitely have a Northern California look and feel. "I see this developing with a San Francisco emphasis."

But he said the news will probably get better as the weekend draws near: "More acts are added on a daily basis."

Stay tuned.

ON THE subject of festivals, the 17th annual San Francisco Blues Festival, the longest running blues festival in the country, was an unqualified success.

Held on the rolling meadows at Fort Mason with a breathtaking view of San Francisco Bay and the Golden Gate Bridge, the festival is one of the best-run events of its kind: exemplary musicians, great food and drinks, a knowledgeable and friendly audience, good sound and a fast-moving program, all blended into an almost seamless day of blues, zydeco and good-time R&B.

The Gospel Hummingbirds appropriately kicked off Sunday's show with some soul-shaking church music as the audience settled in with their bran muffins, bagels and cream cheese and the Sunday Examiner-Chronicle. Dr. Hepcat entertained with his patented rap and boogie-woogie piano, which led into a bracing set by Ronnie Earl and the Broadcasters, with Earl's cool and fluid guitar leading the way through the blues.

Ron Hacker and Dave Wellhausen gave the audience a taste of some acoustic Delta blues, with Hacker on National steel guitar and Wellhausen on harmonica. You could almost feel the cotton growing around you. Earl and the Broadcasters returned to back up Chicago blues legend Otis Rush, an inspired pairing if there ever was one.

The festival then took a detour down to Louisiana bayou with an appearance by fiery zydeco band Terrance Simien and the Mallet Playboys (from Mallett, La.), who got the crowd on its feet for the first time with its raucous and riotous blues and rock-tinged zydeco rhythms. The sun even broke through when the band did a tribute to the "King of Zydeco," the late Clifton Chenier, on Will the Circle Be Unbroken. The band even paid homage to the Neville Brothers with its rendition of the Crescent City classics Iko, Iko and Brother John to close out their party-down set. A hard act to follow.

Talk about hard acts to follow, Etta James and the Roots Band followed a rambling monologue/sermon/diatribe by Chicago Beau with an incendiary set, with James ripping through classics such as Tell Mama, I'd Rather Be Blind, Damn Your Eyes, and Come to Mama, with her usual sass and swagger. Etta James not only has the most soulful growl in the business, but backs it up with a lot of vim and vigor with her powerful band, giving the crowd exactly what it paid for.

Poor Albert King. As the headliner he had to follow Etta's set and just couldn't muster enough energy or inspiration to keep the crowd from heading for the exits a little early. A lot of people didn't even hear that King announced that the festival would be his last gig. After that performance it might be for the best that he retire.

As befits its long-running status, the San Francisco Blues Festival proved itself to be the king of all blues festivals, that is until another one can claim that crown, which seems highly unlikely.

It's still possible to attend sold-out jazz festival

By MAC McDONALD

FOR YEARS the average jazz fan was more or less fenced out of the Monterey Jazz Festival — the event sold out to longtime season ticket holders months in advance of the fall classic.

But that changed a few years ago when organizers came up with the idea of "grounds admission" tickets to allow those not in the inner circle to reap the benefits of one of the longest continually running jazz festivals in the world. Grounds admission tickets gave jazz fans access to the grounds of the festival site — the Monterey Fairgrounds — where the small Garden Stage and a large meeting room (converted into a "nightclub"), were graced with some of the same big names that appeared on the sold-out Arena Stage.

It made for a pretty crowded fairgrounds, but kept jazz fans more than happy. Once again the Monterey Jazz Festival will offer Grounds Admissions to the 32nd annual festival, set for five shows, Friday through Sunday, Sept. 15-17.

There are some added benefits to the grounds-only tickets. A few years ago Poncho Sanchez and his Latin jazz band were still cooking an hour after the music had ended in the main arena. The intimate confines of the nightclub, unlike the wide-open and noisy arena, also gives fans a close-up view of the action with all its intricacies and nuances.

It also gave local jazz musicians an opportunity to showcase their talents before an international audience (Japanese jazz fans are especially well represented). Fans could also roam the grounds and sample some of the various ethnic foods or pick from a variety of apparel, gifts and arts and crafts items offered in the many booths lining the pathways.

That said, here's the lineup for the weekend:

• Friday, Sept. 15: at 6 p.m. on the Garden Stage, Tambo and the Monterey Jazz Festival House Quartet featuring Tee Carson, Bruce Forman, Vince Lateano, Larry Grenadier and special guest Madeline Eastman, entertain. In the Nightclub, Marcos Silva Intersection, Tambo, Joyce Cooling & Viva Brazil, and Brazilian percussion band Batucaje hold forth.

• Saturday, Sept. 16: Starting at 12:15 p.m. on the Garden Stage, an afternoon of blues and zydeco with an acoustic set from Charlie Musselwhite, Ron Thompson, and Mark Naftalin; the Charlie Musselwhite Band; Bobby Reed & Surprise Band featuring Sarah Levingston (who knocked them out at the Monterey Bay Blues Festival); Mark Naftalin Rhythm & Blues Revue starring Jimmy McCracklin, Ron Thompson and Bobbie Webb; Maurice McKinnies & the Electrifying Galaxy Blues Band; zydeco from Rockin' Sidney with Al Rapone and the Zydeco Express; Little Milton and His Revue; and Polyhedra.

At the Nightclub starting at 8 p.m. Jackie Coon Quartet opens, followed by vocalist Kitty Margolis with brilliant pianist Dick Hindman, the Eiji Kitamura Quintet, Mad Romance and Polyhedra.

• Sunday, Sept. 17: At 11 a.m. on the Garden Stage, Dos Pueblos High School Band from Santa Barbara, David Valdez Quartet, Kitty Margolis with Dick Hindman, John Cortes Quartet featuring Scotty Wright, U.S. Navy Band, Swing Twilight Band, and Vaudeville Nouveau (jazz jugglers!).

At 8 p.m. in the Nightclub, David Valdez kicks off the action, Margie Baker & Trio, John Cortes Quartet featuring Scotty Wright, and Vaudeville Nouveau closes out the festival.

Grounds Admission tickets — at $15 for Friday or Sunday and $20 for Saturday — are available at the main ticket booth located at the front gate of the fairgrounds or by calling Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561. Information on the festival is at 373-3366.

(A word to the wise: no bottles, cans, coolers or alcoholic beverages are allowed to be brought inside. And dress warm, it can get chilly at night.)

ARTS & LEISURE

Monarch Concert Series bows with performance by award-winner

THOMAS HAZLETON will open the fifth season of the Monarch Concert Series at 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 17 at First United Methodist Church in Pacific Grove. Hazleton, a native of Pacific Grove, was chosen organist of the year in 1986 by the American Theatre Organ Society. In addition to his extensive concert activity, he is tonal director for the Rodgers Organ Company.

A special New Year's Eve concert will be presented by James Welch (University of California, Santa Barbara), with soprano Carol Williams. In February, Rebecca Nelson, music director of Madonna del Sasso in Salinas, will be the featured artist. The season will close with Jared Jacobsen, of San Leandro, in April.

The concerts are at the "Butterfly" church, so-called because of its stained glass windows, located at Sunset and 17 Mile Drive in Pacific Grove. The 22-rank organ, built by the Murray Harris Company of Los Angeles, was purchased for the church in 1910. When the church moved to its present location, the instrument was moved and rebuilt by Swain & Kates of San Francisco.

Tickets for the series are $25, $20 for seniors, students and military. Single ticket prices are $8 and $6 respectively. Tickets are available through Center Stage or at the door.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Truth, great and plain

IF SCIENCE finds the long-sought unifier of all physical laws, it'll likely be some variation on — Stuff happens; things change. That truth, great and plain, seems worth noting while Monterey Jazz Festival readies its 32nd annual run for Friday through Sunday nights (9/15-17) at the fairgrounds.

Change. Fest honcho Jimmy Lyons and writer Ira Kamin put together a handsome history book covering the first two decades. It says of MJF number one — "Monterey was scared to death. The very idea: bringing jazz to a respectable community." And just the other afternoon, Monterey mayor Dan Albert issued a proclamation setting aside Jazz Festival Appreciation Week. This ends as the festival itself begins.

Original frights included interracial orgies and drug addicts running amok. Instead, jazz as presented by Jimmy, the MJF board and staff members has kept his early pledge to communities — an economic boost after Labor Day. Amok's not a very interesting place.

"We're quite happy being honored," Lyons said. "We've tried for 30 years to get this sort of acknowledgement."

The proclamation notes that MJF "has donated more than $1 million to jazz scholarship programs" and that the fest-sponsoring MCI Telecommunications "has contributed over $100,000 to the Jazz Festival Scholarship Fund." During the proclamation ceremony at Colton Hall, company reps handed over the latest $25,000 increment.

Now, MCI's certainly not involved for the purpose of losing money. Write-offs and promotional opportunities give the firm a pretty good deal. At the same time, spokeswoman Fran Zone states her case sincerely: MCI's yearly sum helps the festival concentrate on top-drawer talent. "And we really are interested in students — the future jazz generations."

Hired guns — also known as flacks — aren't good at banter. Fran Zone's witty and aware style indicated that she had been some kind of jazz pro. Yes, she said — fine years were spent as an agent for fine players.

So-someone at MCI was smart enough to hire this stylish lady. Let it be noted that there never was an official Jazz Festival Appreciation Week till she hit town.

About programming. Private binds forced Billy Eckstine to cancel his Sunday night arena slot. A few days later, Jimmy announced an addition on Sunday evening — alto saxist John Handy and Class. That's three young women who play electric violins and sing — Julie Carter, Tarika Lewis, Sandi Poindexter — plus rhythm section. Their debut album has been released by Milestone Records.

John lives in San Francisco, worked for Mingus, played MJF many years ago. Now he vocalizes too: "Singing is something that I think jazz players had better start doing a lot more of in order to survive and increase our audience."

Friday's arena show (8:30) — Brazil Night. Batucaje dance troupe, Marcos Silva and Intersection (with Festival High School All-Stars alumna Mary Fettig on reeds), guitarist and composer Toninho Horta, Tania Maria, Herbie Mann's Jasilbrazz unit.

Saturday afternoon blues romp (1:30) — Jimmy McCracklin with Mark Naftalin Band, Zydeco Blast-Off (Rockin' Sidney plus Al Rapone and Zydeco Express), Little Milton Revue, Etta James and her Roots Band.

Saturday night (8:15) — Swing Twilight Big Band from Japan (they again paid their own way simply to play Monterey), Monte Alexander Trio, Freddie Hubbard, Bobby Hutcherson, Mad Romance (eastern vocal group), Bill Holman Big Band.

Sunday afternoon (12:30) — Student victors in the 1989 competition: Amador Valley High School Band, Berkeley High Combo, Mt. Pleasant High Vocal Group. Bill Berry directing the High School All-Stars. Dizzy Gillespie will play with the latter gang.

Sunday night (7:15) — Giant Jam with MJF House Quartet and guests, Handy's crew, Take Six (Grammy-winning vocal unit), Eiji Kitamura Quintet, Dizzy doing whatever he likes and whenever, Illinois Jacquet Big Band.

"I think we have a good show," Jimmy said. "People seem to be supporting our choices."

KUSP Radio (88.9FM) plans live broadcasts of all arena sets. Ed Crankshaw of KRML Radio (1410AM) says that station will carry the Sunday afternoon student bash.

Chamber Music Society announces a full concert season

THE CHAMBER Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula is preparing for its 22nd season of concerts at Sunset Theater in Carmel. There will be five concerts and a National Chamber Music Competition for young musicians.

The Mladi Wind Quintet will open the season on Oct. 6. Founded in 1972, Mladi was the first wind ensemble to win the Coleman Chamber Music Competition. The quintet has been featured at the Ojai Music Festival and is quintet-in-residence at the Idyllwild School of Music and the Arts. Their steadily increasing recognition comes from live performances as well as radio and television broadcasts.

The Shanghai String Quartet will perform in November. Formed in 1983 at the Shanghai Conservatory, the quartet gained national recognition in competitions and performances in China. The group then came to the United States where they have continued their studies with the Vermeer Quartet, the Tokyo Quartet and the Juilliard Quartet. Each year their list of concert engagements has increased as has critical acclaim. The 1989/90 season consists of more than 55 concerts in 25 states.

The American Chamber Players will come to our peninsula in January. Founded by violist Miles Hoffman, the members were drawn from a group of young musicians with whom Hoffman had been performing at the Library of Congress Summer Chamber Festival since 1982. After concerts in the East, the ensemble has now extended its concert schedule to the west as well.

The Shostakovich String Quartet continues our concert season in February. The quartet gave its debut at the Moscow Conservatory in 1967 and by 1979 were officially designated the Shostakovich Quartet. By 1988, following their first North American tour, they appeared at the Edinburgh Festival, Amsterdam's Concertgebouw and at Adelaide's super-Festival of the Southern Hemisphere. They are now recognized as one of the major new quartets on the musical concert circuit.

The Leonardo Trio will present a concert in April. Formed in 1985, these three gifted young musicians have brought a wide-ranging repertoire to concerts in Washington, D.C., Denver, Pittsburgh, Binghamton, N.Y., and have appeared at the Beethoven Festival and Friends of the Arts on Long Island, and the Soclair Music Festival in New Jersey. The trio has been invited for their third successive summer residency by Music at Gretna in Pennsylvania.

The society will conclude its season with the Carmel Chamber Music National Competition for young musicians. Competitors come from the nation's foremost music schools and conservatories. Winners of the competition present a concert and receive their awards on April 22.

All the work necessary to present the chamber music series is done by volunteers. The task of selecting and booking the new season's ensembles was done by the Society's Booking Committee chaired by John Pratt of Carmel. The task of preparing for and organizing the Society's National Competition is the responsibility of the Competition Committee which is chaired by Jerry Foote of Carmel Valley.

Memberships in the Chamber Music Society with admission to all concerts are still open. Memberships at $30 to hear the chamber music ensembles is made possible by the generosity of members of the society, private grants, and by the support of the City of Carmel, the Monterey County Cultural Council, and the AT&T Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

For membership information contact the Chamber Music Society at 625-2212.

Coyote images

DANIEL O. Stolpe of Santa Cruz will talk about his series, "Images and Myths of Coyote Suite I and II," on Wednesday, Sept. 20. Stolpe has concentrated on images of coyote, a prolific figure in Native American myth, as an expression of contradictions and aspirations of human consciousness, and as a vehicle for direct expression of male and female sexuality. There will be a question and answer period followed by a video with an introduction by Dennis Banks. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Portofino Cafe, 620 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove.

Non-profits invited to participate in bazaar

Local not-for-profit organizations are invited to participate in the annual Christmas-by-the-Bay-Bazaar, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 18-19 at Del Monte Shopping Center, Monterey.

Operated by the Clark Foundation, the bazaar enables participating agencies, service clubs, churches and other organizations to sell original Christmas gifts ranging from homemade foods, toys, woven and knitted items and art to gift baskets, wreaths, household items, plants and books. Some organizations also have items to raffle.

Participants make a 100% profit on their sales, paying only $25 for a table space. There will be a gala opening on Friday, Nov. 17 in the evening.

The deadline for sign-ups is Sept. 15. For more information, contact Mrs. Barrett Gamble or Mrs. Kevin Howe.

Dyslexia Society presents John W. Corcoran

John W. Corcoran, Jr., who became a millionaire although he could neither read nor write, will be the guest speaker at a lecture sponsored by the Central California Branch of the Orton Dyslexia Society 7:30 to 9 p.m. Monday, Sept. 18, at Santa Catalina School's Sister Carlotta Performing Arts Center. There is no charge; however, donations will be accepted.

In the 1970s, Corcoran who, despite his handicap, was a high school teacher, parlayed a $2,500 investment into real estate holdings valued at several million dollars. He resigned his teaching position when his real estate interests demanded his full attention. When the real estate boom collapsed in the 1980s, Corcoran's economic survival depended upon his ability to renegotiate and restructure loans.

"My first strategy was to utilize a network of professional consultants, but the critical factor was literacy — reading and writing skills," he said.

At 48, Corcoran realized that he was a linguistic outcast in a world where reading and writing are second nature to most people, he enrolled as a learner in the Adult Learning Program of the Carlsbad City Library.

"Until I learned to read and write, my life was a fraud," Corcoran said. "A day never passed without my worrying about being exposed as a dummy."

Corcoran is committed to actively participating in the national effort to make America literate. He appears frequently on television and radio shows, and speaks before a variety of organizations about his personal odyssey out of illiteracy.

Last November, Corcoran received the National Literacy Honors Award presented by First Lady Barbara Bush for the National Literacy Coalition and Project Literacy. On March 9, he received the Alumni of the Year Award from the Gamma Alumni Association, University of Texas, El Paso, Texas.

For more information, call 375-5890 or 394-4603.

"MENDOCINO Reflections" is the theme of a collection of watercolors by William F. Stone, Jr. featured in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association. The show coincides with the publication of Stone's book of collected poems and illustrations also by that title. The galleries are on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, Carmel. The show will continue through Oct. 4.

Celebrate the thistle during Castroville Artichoke Fest

ON SATURDAY and Sunday, Sept. 16-17, the Castroville community will celebrate the thistle that has made the town famous. The 30th annual Castroville Artichoke Festival will again feature artichoke and food specialty booths, an arts and crafts faire, carnival games, continuous entertainment on two stages, and a small admission fee — $1 for adults and children are free!

Activities will begin on Saturday morning, Sept. 16 with a 10K Run and a Kids Fun Run. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m. for both events, inside the Community Center at Pomber and Crane streets. The Kids Fun Run will start at 8:30 a.m. Starting time for the 10K is 9 a.m. SHARP! Trophies will be awarded to division finalists. And, there will be a giant drawing that all registered runners will qualify for.

Saturday will also be the day for the cookoff for the Lucky Recipe Contest. Co-sponsored by Lucky Stores, this competition again promises to provide some new ideas for preparing artichokes. First prize will be a $500 merchandise certificate and second prize will be $100. The cookoff itself will begin at 9 a.m. at nearby North County High School, and the winner will be announced at 2 p.m. at the Community Center stage.

Back by popular demand, the Artichoke Eating Contest will be another highlight on Saturday afternoon. The hungry gourmet who succeeds in devouring the largest quantity of artichokes will receive some great prizes. This event will also begin at the Community Center stage area immediately following announcement of the recipe contest winners.

Sunday activities begin early with the Volunteer Firefighters' Pancake Breakfast from 5-9 a.m. in the fire station. The "best little parade in Central California" will wind its way down Merritt Street at 10 a.m. full of floats, bands, drill teams, and local personalities.

At 11 a.m. the firefighters take over again with an old-fashioned muster which is fast-paced, exciting and just plain fun to watch. Parade awards ceremonies at 2 p.m. round out Sunday's special events.

As one of the oldest and best agricultural festivals in California, the Castroville Artichoke Festival has been a fall highlight on the Central Coast since 1959. With all proceeds going to local charities and youth groups, the festival committee is working to make the 1989 festival the most exciting yet, and invites everyone to come to Castroville to help "Celebrate the Thistle."

Local housing needed for MIIS students

Classes start soon at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, and many of the new students are eager to locate suitable housing. Rooms with American families are particularly desirable for the many students from abroad who are studying here.

In the past, students have pooled resources to rent a house, an apartment or a condo. Others rented unused bedrooms in a home. Others have traded free or reduced housing for language lessons for adults or children or for babysitting, housework, driving and other errands.

Students attending the Monterey Institute are bright and mature, highly motivated, unusually resourceful and have interesting backgrounds of international travel.

For more information, call the Student Affairs Office at 647-4129.

Rhythm will fill Friday workshop

HOW A MUSICIAN comprehends his dreams through his chosen means of expression is the focus of a workshop titled "Rhythms of the Night: Drumming Dreams into Life" offered Friday, Sept. 15. The program will be preceded by an informal potluck reception at 6:30 p.m. at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel.

The musician is Ira Ginsburg, M.A. a music therapist formerly with MGM's Johnny Green, Charlies Spivack and other top bands. He will be joined by Leslie Tryon, also of Carmel, who teaches dance locally and was formerly with Bob Fosse, and performed in Los Angeles TV shows some years ago.

In addition, Peter Harding, M.D. of Big Sur, will provide commentary and guidance for all participants in making responses to the drumming and the dancing via movement and other non-verbal renderings.

The activities are sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung. This program serves to make dramatic emphasis of Jung's ideas regarding how the body and its movements are primary — and primal — means of communication between human beings and between the individual and his physical and spiritual worlds.

Prior registrations are not required; a modest donation is suggested.

CARMEL DANCE instructor Leslie Tryon will assist in the Friday, Sept. 15 workshop offered by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung.

Festival of Firsts

The opening program for The Festival of Firsts Playwriting Competition will take place Saturday, Sept. 16 at Oldemeyer Center in Seaside. The 7:30 p.m. program will consist of a staged reading and critique of an original play, The Lady Swims Today, a comedy/mystery reminiscent of the Humphrey Bogart-Lauren Bacall films of the '40s.

The program continues Sunday, Sept. 17 at Steinbeck Forum in the Monterey Conference Center. At 7:30 p.m., Peter Nyberg will direct a staged reading of The Rationality Clinic, a comedy by John Fritz.

Both plays are runners-up in the competition. See the separate On Stage listing for the winning play, True Boardman's Portrait of a Dream.

Stand-off

LYSISTRATA (Julie Hughett, left), leads the women in refusal all favors, sexual and otherwise, until the men stop their "foolish wars." Jeff Heyer plays the Commissioner of Men in the Carmel Play Festival staging of Aristophanes' farce.

Admission is free to these staged readings. For more information, call 624-3996.

Lysistrata

Artisophanes' classic comedy/farce, in which the women of Greece deny the men all favors — until they stop warring — opens Friday, Sept. 15. The Carmel Play Festival produces this work at the Outdoor Forest Theater in Carmel.

John Rousseau adapted and directs Lysistrata, an anti-war statement written by Aristophanes circa 411 B.C. The cast includes Julie Hughett in the title role, plus Jeff Heyer, Dorian Ellis, Ron Cohen, Mindy Stock, Jeff Hudelson, Mickie Braun and others.

A discount preview is set 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14. Preview admission is $5.

Regular performances are set at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays until Oct. 8 (no performance on Sept. 24). Beginning at 7:30 each performance night, magician Roy Slater and juggler Chris Heimer will entertain playgoers. Admission is $8 general; $6 for students, seniors (over 65) or military; and $5 for children 12 and under and GroveMont season ticket holders.

The theater is on Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Information: 649-0340 or 649-5561.

ROUNDUP

Artists join in all-day draw

The Pacific Grove Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove, provides the setting for all-day art draws the first Saturday of each month.

Artists in all media and skill levels are invited to work at the center for all or part of the day. They will share the cost of professional art models and work independently at easels and tables provided by the center. There is a potluck lunch for those who wish to participate.

The fee is $16 for the day or $8 for half a day, with draw hours set 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the first Saturday of each month.

For details, call 649-4657 or 375-2208.

Camp hosts sought for Big Sur coast

State parks along the scenic Big Sur coast have several openings for volunteer camp hosts — either couples or individuals.

Camp host duties range from greeting visitors and working in a visitor center to collecting fees, maintenance and other duties involved in operating a campground. Camp hosts must supply their own camping vehicles. Campsites are provided, with hookups for water and electricity. Each camp host must agree to work 20 hours a week and stay at least two months.

Persons interested in becoming camping hosts in the state parks of the Big Sur coast may contact Chief Ranger Hayden Sohm, 667-2316, or write to Big Sur District, Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park No. 1, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Free guide to off-highway areas

A new guide to Off-Highway Vehicle Areas in California is available at State Vehicular Recreation Areas.

The guide includes a map and listing of off-highway areas managed by the California Department of Parks and Recreation, the U.S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, as well as areas managed by counties, cities or other jurisdictions.

The guide also has a section with safety and preparedness tips and legal requirements for the use of off-highway vehicles in California.

Individual copies are also available free of charge by contacting Publications Section, Department of Parks and Recreation, Box 942896, Sacramento, CA 94296-0838, call (916) 322-7000.

Free tours offered of observatory

Free tours of the Oliver Observing Station run by the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy at Chews Ridge will be offered on selected Sundays at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Founded in 1972, MIRA is one of very few independent professional observatories in the United States. MIRA's 36-inch telescope, state-of-the-art instrumentation and unusual observatory building combine to permit the rapid acquisition of high quality data. MIRA astronomers are engaged in a wide range of projects, from the study of the birth, life and death of stars, to comets sweeping through the solar system.

The final tour is set Oct. 15 (weather permitting).

Reservations must be made since space is limited. To make a reservation and obtain map and instructions, call 375-3220.

JAZZ TIDES

followed by pianist Jan Deneau (9/20) and vocalist Madeline Eastman (9/21).

Santa Cruz pianist John Donaldson fronted a group at the same venue. In a rather meditative mood, he produced harmonies that made the barside chatter stop. There seems no end to this transplanted Britisher's creativity. If there's any justice, he'll become a national name within the next couple of years.

On Monday night (9/18) at Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz — Zawinul Syndicate with Joe Zawinul on keyboards, Scott Henderson (guitar), Gerald Veasley (bass), Cornell Rochester (drums). It's $13 per; shows at 7:30 and 9:30; Center Stage Ticketing.

And these just announced by Kuumbwa for October: Jim Hall, Astrid Gilberto, Timeless All-Stars. Details as they evolve.

The gallery in Seaside City Hall offers jazz-based art works all month. Playing the reception Friday evening (9/15) — trad trumpetist Joe Ingram and friends. Freebie. (Joe and wife Mary moved to Sacramento; she has a steady piano gig on one of the refurbished riverboats.)

Dave Brubeck will present a pair of afternoon concerts at Paul Masson Winery above Saratoga (9/16-17). Each starts at two o'clock. Tickets: 1-741-5181.

BENNY GOODMAN'S daughter plans a documentary on his life — and she needs help. Rachel Goodman Edelson seeks pertinent posters, photos, programs from one-nighters. Her address: PO Box 188069, Broadway Station, Sacramento 95818.

JAZZ WRITER and press agent Elliott Horne has died in New York. Age 67. He worked for Columbia Records in the '50s and then spent 25 years with RCA. Elliott had great fun composing hipster dialect; a collection of tales entitled The Hiptionary was published (1963).

AMERICAN MASTER — Dizzy Gillespie will keep busy during 32nd annual Monterey Jazz Festival. His charisma's as boundless as the musical knowledge packed under this man's baseball cap. (Will Wallace photo.)

ROUNDUP

Choral Society meets Tuesdays

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society has appointed Barney Hulse as the music director and conductor for the 1989-90 season.

Rehearsals take place 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays at the Church of Religious Science, 400 W. Franklin St., Monterey. This year the Choral Society will perform the Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" with the Monterey Bay Symphony, on Dec. 8-9 at the Carmel Mission Basilica.

The soloists will be Nancy Williams, soprano; Katrina Carlson, mezzo; Gene Albin, tenor; and David Cox-Cresswell, bass.

Auditions for choral members may be arranged by calling 899-8494. For further Choral Society information, call 375-0213.

Outdoors Singles Society meets

The Monterey Outdoor Singles Society is having a potluck and activity planning meeting on Sunday, Sept. 17 from 4 to 8 p.m. at Via Paraiso Park in Monterey (near the parking lot on Martin Street). Interested singles of all ages are welcome. Bring something to barbecue, a potluck dish to share, and meet other singles.

For information, call membership chairman Jim Marks at 375-2952.

Volunteer gardeners sought

The City of Monterey Parks Division is in need of volunteer gardeners to work in city parks. The volunteers are led by Sandra Forman and meet 9 a.m. to noon Tuesdays at the French Consulate historic adobe, Franklin Street and Camino El Estero, Monterey. Bring your energy. Tools and materials will be provided. For details, call 646-3860.

New dance programs at Hidden Valley

Classes have begun at the fall dance program sponsored by the Hidden Valley Dance Center.

A fully graded curriculum for the professional and non-professional dancer aged 5 to adult is presented. Classes are offered in classical ballet, pointe, floor barre, jazz and tap. Fran Spector heads the program with Susan Cable, a dance instructor from Los Angeles, joining the staff to teach jazz and tap.

Several dance intensives will be held during October and November including a five-week ballroom dance workshop with Walter and Debbie White, a weekend intensive in Kongolese dance and drumming led by Titos Sompa, and a two-day dance intensive in ballet, jazz, tap and flamenco.

Full full details and brochure call Hidden Valley Dance Center at 659-3115.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

THE ABYSS: Director James Cameron's (Terminator, Aliens) much-awaited and long-delayed thriller involves a prototype underwater oil-drilling habitat, a disabled U.S. Navy nuclear submarine and mysterious non-terrestrial life forms, all coming together in a journey of action, wonder and discovery. Stars Ed Harris as Bud Brigman, rig foreman on "Deepcore," Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio as his estranged wife, who is also "Deepcore's" project engineer — his superior, and Michael Biehn as a U.S. Nay Seal sent on a rescue mission. Rated PG-13. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

BATMAN: The long-awaited tale of The Dark Knight — Batman — stars Michael Keaton in the title role (and as Bruce Wayne of course), and Jack Nicholson as his archnemesis, The Joker. Kim Basinger co-stars as photojournalist Vicki Vale; also with Bill Dee Williams, Robert Wuhl, and Pat Hingle. Songs by Prince, music by Danny Elfman. Directed by Tim Burton (Beetlejuice, Pee Wee's Big Adventure). Rated PG-13. At Cinema 70. 373-4777.

CASUALTIES OF WAR: Director Brian De Palma (Scarface) explores the tenuous relationship between a cruel, battle-hardened sargeant (Sean Penn), and a fresh-faced newcomer (Michael J. Fox) during Vietnam war when their five-man squad kidnaps and rapes a young Vietnamese woman. Based on a true incident. Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas with 'Relentless.' 372-7300.

CHEETAH: Tale of two California teenagers living in Africa and their quest to rescue their pet cheetah that has been abducted, in the process joining up with Masai warriors and experiencing firsthand the wonders of wild Africa. From Walt Disney Pictures. Stars Kevin Coogan and Lucy Deakins. Rated G. At the Dream Theater. Saturday, Sunday matinees only. 372-1331.

CHOCOLAT: Claire Denis' evocative memoir of daughter of a French territorial governor in Africa; a portrayal of a small girl growing up in a colonial environment in the late 1950s. Rated PG-13. Opens Sept. 15 at the Carmel Village Theater. 624-5341.

DEAD POETS SOCIETY: Robin Williams stars as a joyously eccentric teacher who returns to the school from which he graduated to inspire his students to pursue their individual passions, explore new horizons of self-expression and to discover the excitement of the world outside Welton Academy in this film directed by Australian Peter Weir (Witness, Year of Living Dangerously). Rated PG. At Dream Theater. 372-1331.

FIELD OF DREAMS: Kevin Costner stars an Iowa farmer who sees a vision and hears a voice that tells him to build a baseball field in the middle of his cornfield so that baseball stars of yesteryear — such as Shoeless Joe Jackson — can once again play. A movie about nostalgia, America's pastime and pursuing dreams. Co-stars Amy Madigan, James Earl Jones and Burt Lancaster. Rated PG. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

HONEY, I SHRUNK THE KIDS Rick Moranis (Ghostbusters II) stars as a daffy scientist who accidentally shrinks his children to ant-size, then throws them out in the trash in this Disney comedy loaded with special effects. Marcia Strassman co-stars as his wife and Matt Frewer as the nosy neighbor. Rated PG. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

INDIANA JONES & LAST CRUSADE: Harrison Ford returns for a third go-around as adventurer-archeologist Indiana Jones in this action-adventure sequel directed by Steven Spielberg. This time Indiana Jones is after the Holy Grail and once again fighting Nazis, but this time with help from his archeologist father, played by Sean Connery. Co-stars John Rhys Davies, Denholm Elliott, Alison Doody and Julian Glover. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

KICKBOXER: Belgian martial arts star Claude Van Damme (Cyborg, Blood Sport) returns in yet another vehicle that showcases his considerable martial arts skills. Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

LETHAL WEAPON II: Mel Gibson and Danny Glover return as two cops on the trail of a group of nasty drug smugglers, this time the villains are connected — and protected — by the South African government in this slam-bang action-adventure directed by Richard Donner. Also co-stars Joe Pesci. Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

MILLENIUM: Sci-fi thriller about a passenger airliner that "disappears" with all on board...into the future. Stars Kris Kristofferson as the airline pilot and Cheryl Ladd as a woman from the future. Rated PG-13. At the State III Cinemas. 372-4555.

NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET V: THE DREAM CHILD: Freddy's smarting from the beating he took in Part IV and is back for vengeance. Robert Englund returns as mass murderer Freddy Krueger, with Lisa Wilcox and Danny Hassel as his intended victims. Rated R. At the Hill Theatre with Wired. 375-2800.

PARENTHOOD: An all-star cast heads this comedy directed by Ron Howard (Coccoon, Splash, Willow) about the trials and tribulations of parenthood based on experiences with his own four children. Stars Steve Martin, Jason Robards, Dianne Wiest, Mary Steenburgen, Rick Moranis, Tom Hulce, Martha Plimpton and Keanu Reeves. Rated PG-13. At the Valley Cinema. 624-5111.

RELENTLESS: Brat Packer Judd Nelson tries out a different role this time, as a psychotic mass murderer being pursued by a pair of determined detectives. Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas with 'Casualties of War.' 372-7300.

ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW: A send-up of remembered monster movies, with the added twist of music — "The Time Warp," "Over at the Frankenstein Place," and an audience that seems to know the lines better than the actors. A long-standing cult classic. Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

SEA OF LOVE: Al Pacino and Ellen Barkin star in this thriller about a cop on the trail of a ruthless killer who falls for a mysterious woman. John Goodman (Roseanne) co-stars as Pacino's detective partner. Directed by Harold Becker (The Onion Fields). Rated R. Opens Sept. 15 at the Crossroads Cinemas. 624-2792.

UNCLE BUCK: Comedy starring John Candy as a obnoxious, ne'er-do-well bachelor who finds himself in charge of a group of youngsters. Also stars Amy Madigan as his long-suffering girlfriend. Directed by John Hughes (Breakfast Club). Rated PG. At the Crossroads Cinemas. 624-2792.

WHEN HARRY MET SALLY: Rob Reiner (Stand By Me, Princess Bride) directed this modern romantic comedy, which stars Billy Crystal and Meg Ryan as somewhat reluctant friends who ask the eternal question, "Can friends remain friends once they're lovers?" Co-stars Carrie Fisher and Bruno Kirby. At the Golden Bough. 624-4044.

WIRED: Based on the book by Pulitzer Prize winner Bob Woodward, this controversial film traces the short, brilliant and tragic career of comedian John Belushi, who died of a drug overdose in 1981. Newcomer Michael Chiklis stars as Belushi, with J.T. Walsh as Woodward. Directed by Larry Peerce. Rated R. At the Hill Theatre with Nightmare on Elm Street V. 375-2800.

Strange object

SIFTING THROUGH the recovered wreckage of a downed 747, Kris Kristofferson as government investigator Bill Smith discovers a strange object which is the key to a dangerous mission undertaken by (from left), Victoria Snow, Claudette Roach and Cheryl Ladd, in Millennium.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
No. 45869

YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED FEBRUARY 16, 1988. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on September 15, 1989, at 1:00 p.m., at the front entrance to the Monterey County Courthouse, 240 Church Street, in the City of Salinas, County of Monterey, State of California, 93901, Henry Rendler, whose street address is 555 N. First St. No.200, San Jose, CA 95112, and whose telephone number is (408) 293-5112, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, all that certain real property situated in the City of Carmel, County of Monterey, State of California, described as follows:

LOT 12, of tract no. 388, according to the Map filed in the Office of the Recorder of the County of Monterey, State of California, in Book 7 of Maps, Cities and Towns, Page 39.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be:

24806 Handley Drive
Carmel, California 93923

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein.

The sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to satisfy the obligations secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in that certain deed of trust dated February 16, 1988, executed by Charles F. Swanston and Susan A. Swanston, His Wife, to Walter G. Fitzsimons, as trustee for Helen L. Stacy, an unmarried woman, as to a 65/90% interest and Raymond Davidson and Mary E. Davidson, His Wife, as Joint Tenants as to a 25/90% interest, as beneficiaries, recorded on February 19, 1988, in Reel 2198, Page 1216, as document number 08418, of Official Records of Monterey County, California.

Notice of Default and Election to Sell the above-described real property under this deed of trust was recorded on February 15, 1989, in Reel 2331, Page 683, instrument number 08531, Official Records of the County of Monterey, State of California.

The sale will be made to pay the remaining principal sum of the note secured by the deed of trust, with interest thereon as provided in said notice, advances, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, fees, charges, and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust, with the total unpaid balance of the obligation now amounting to:

$100,978.25

The undersigned was appointed and substituted as trustee under the Deed of Trust by a substitution dated May 10, 1989, recorded on May 12, 1989, in Reel 2364, Page 0177, document number 26282, in the Official Records of Monterey County, State of California.

CITY COUNCIL
CITY OF
CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
ORDINANCE NO. 89-27

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA AMENDING SECTION 10.32.140 A.1. OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE REGARDING RESIDENT PARKING PERMITS.

WHEREAS, the intent of resident parking permits is to allow holders to park for double the time in certain limited time parking zones; and

WHEREAS, the authorized time allowed in green zones may from time to time be altered;

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Chapter 10.32.140 A.1 of the Municipal Code shall be amended as shown in Exhibit A.

EXHIBIT "A"

10.32.140 Resident Permit Parking. It is the purpose of this Section to establish for residents or owners of residential property (R-1, R-4) within the corporate limits of the City, a permit parking system in the commercial district.

A. 1. Vehicles bearing current residential parking permit stickers shall be allowed to be parked for two hours in parking spaces marked for one-hour parking and double the time in green parking spaces, with the exception of ten-minute-timed zones.

PASSED AND ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA this 7th day of September 1989 by the following roll call vote:

CITY OF
CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
ORDINANCE NO. 89-26

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING SECTION 12.08.110 OF THE CITY'S MUNICIPAL CODE REGARDING INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS FOR HOLD HARMLESS ENCROACHMENT AGREEMENTS.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section One: Chapter 12.08.110 of the Municipal Code (Hold Harmless Agreement, insurance and bond requirement, and annual fee) is amended in its entirety and shall be replaced as shown in Exhibit "A," attached hereto and made a part hereof.

EXHIBIT "A"

12.08.110 Hold Harmless Agreement, insurance and bond requirement. Before receiving an encroachment permit, and as a condition of that permit, the permittee shall execute an Agreement holding the City harmless from any and all claims, actions and demands of third parties of any kind, character and description arising out of or due to any accident or mishap in, on or about said encroachment so constructed or maintained or any error or omission resulting in personal injury or property damage. The permittee shall provide a certificate of insurance naming the City as an additional insured for the term of the maintenance of the encroachment establishing that the permittee has One Million Dollars combined single limit insurance of personal injury and/or property damage caused by or due to the presence of the encroachment in the CC, SC, RC and R-4 Districts and Five Hundred Thousand Dollars of this coverage in the R-1 District. The limit of insurance and any other requirements relating to the insurance required may be adjusted by the City Council from time to time by Resolution. The insurance carrier shall certify that the insurance is currently in force and that it will notify the City ten (10) days in advance of any material change in the policy, including cancellation or nonrenewal thereof. This insurance shall be primary over any other collectible or valid insurance the City may have. In addition, the bonding requirement set forth in Chapter 12.16 of the Municipal Code shall be met for an encroachment involving excavation work. The City shall have the executed Hold Harmless Agreement recorded with the Monterey County Recorder's office. The recorded document becomes a permanent record, and an encroachment permit and its conditions run with the land. In the event of change of ownership of the property, the terms and conditions of the Hold Harmless Agreement are conveyed with the title.

Section Two: If any part of this Ordinance, even as small as a word or phrase, is found unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

Section Three: This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final passage and adoption.

PASSED AND ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA this 7th day of September, 1989 by the following roll call vote:

AYES: COUNCIL MEMBERS: Fischer, Laiolo White, Grace

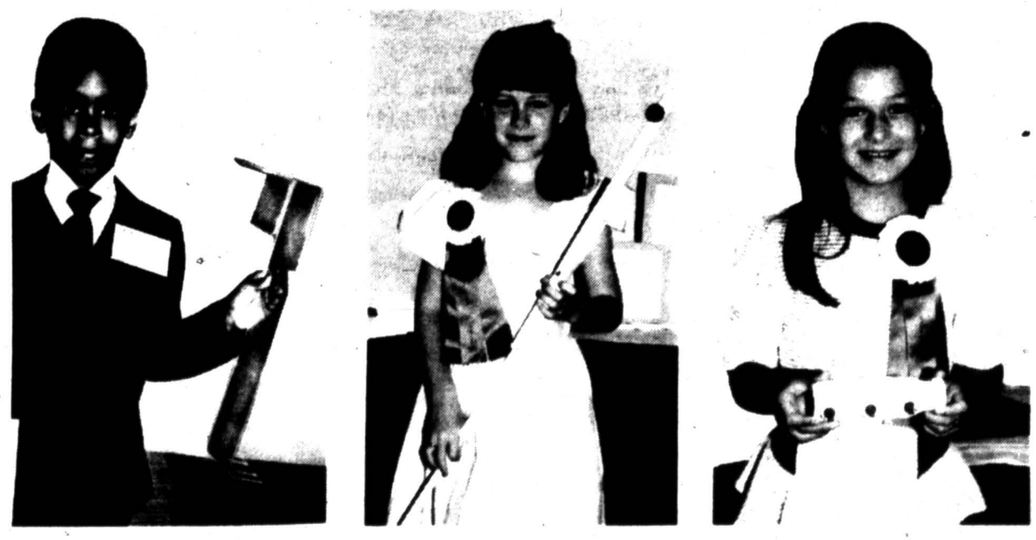
What kind of a kid do you suppose Thomas Edison was?



Bet he looked at problems and saw solutions. Like Maurice Scales who invented Baby No-Mash to prevent doors from closing on little fingers.

Bet he saw how things were done, and imagined better ways to do them. Like Lillian Lukas who invented the Puddle Detecting Cane for the blind.

Bet he watched how things work and thought of ways to avoid wasting time or effort. Like Caitilin McCracken who invented the Orphan Kitten Feeder for Three.

Maurice, Lillian and Caitilin were three of the thousands of winners in the Invent America! education program.

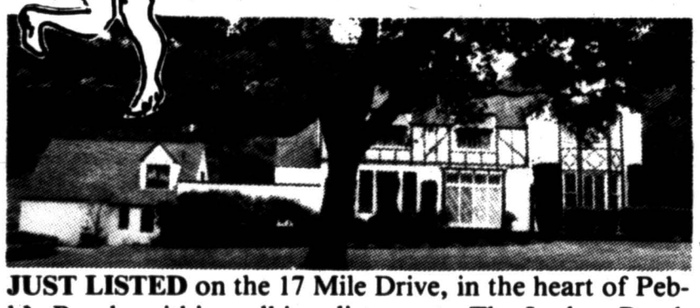
TUDOR ESTATE



JUST LISTED on the 17 Mile Drive, in the heart of Pebble Beach, within walking distance to The Lodge, Beach Club, and the ocean...an imposing two-story home set off by a curving driveway and lush green lawn with stately oak trees. This three-bedroom home has been recently remodeled and redecorated, but its Old World features remain intact...such as leaded glass windows, slate patio, curving staircase, bay windows, high ceilings, and a hand-carved French mantelpiece dating from 1700. In addition, there are two comfortable guest houses, one detached, and one over the garage. Altogether a handsome home worthy of the estate area in which it is located. $1,850,000.

SKYLINE FOREST BEAUTY

A MOST ATTRACTIVE home in a fine neighborhood, designed by noted architect Roger Poole to provide comfortable living amid stylish surroundings. Soaring ceilings, step-down living room with dramatic stone fireplace, family room with wet bar and another fireplace, and sunny deck off living, dining, family rooms, and the master bedroom. There are two other good bedrooms, plus two up-to-date baths. Double garage, hot tub, and loads of storage. An excellent buy for this area at $399,000.

SPACE AND SUN

LOTS OF SPACE...and lots of sun...feature this pleasant family home in upper Pebble Beach. You'll like the easy floor plan, from the large living room with its fireplace, through the dining area, family room, study, and three bedrooms. The house itself stands on a large lot, affording light as well as garden outlooks to every room. Freshly redecorated, so all you have to do is move right in. It's a home made for relaxing...and best of all the price has been REDUCED to $369,000.

THE CRASHING SURF

A BREATHTAKING VIEW of the crashing surf is yours from this handsome home built of stones from the Mother Lode country. You approach this wonderful house by a road on the west side of Highway 1 (just north of Rocky Point), then park in a big bricked courtyard. A stone bridge crossing a moat takes you to the living room with its fabulous view of the waves from three big plate glass windows. Three bedrooms, big glassed-in deck, and much, much, more. $1,200,000.

"Windswept"
A PEBBLE BEACH ESTATE

The Garden of Eden could not be more breathtaking nor serene than "Windswept," nestled among the oaks, pines and redwoods and an easy walk to Carmel. Flora and fauna in spectacular abundance surround the main residence all encompassed by Carmel stone walls and impressive wood and wrought iron gates. A naturalist's dream and a delight to the most discriminating taste.

Designed to lend the feeling of one-with-nature, this Shaw & Burde & Associates/architecture combines opulence with warmth and practicality. Clearheart redwood panelling encases you in the living room, dining room, and hallways as you meander throughout over travertine marble floors. The living room is quite extraordinary with three conversation areas, a magnificent marble fireplace, illuminated library shelves, and window views framed by folage of various descriptions. The gallery is wide and expansive overlooking the patio and pathways beyond.

Three bedroom and bathroom suites are decorated in complimentary distinct styles using luxurious fabrics throughout. Royalty could not ask for better guest accommodations than these overlooking the pond and waterfalls.

A large kitchen with adjoining butler's alcove and sink enhance entertaining on a large scale, or the breakfast area next to the patio is perfect for family gatherings on an informal basis.

Call today for an appointment to see this enchanting property. $4,000,000.

CARMEL VIEWS—REDUCED
Nestled amidst lofty pines on a sunny, level half acre, this newer family home features a redwood deck/entry which leads to a tiled foyer and a beautiful living room with grasscloth, a corner fireplace and sliding doors to expansive deck. The extra large dining room also opens to a deck. A huge country kitchen features breakfast/family room, beautiful cabinetry and built-in microwave. The oversized master suite offers a dressing area, triple closets, a huge tiled shower, and wooded view. There's a double garage, easy-care landscaping, cul-de-sac privacy and a decided sparkle about this special home. Now $415,000.

LAND HERE!
PRIME BUILDING SITES
We currently feature an excellent selection of building lots — Carmel Highlands oceanside sensation, offered at $425,000 — Palo Colorado 1 acre with year-round stream $48,000 — Carmel Valley commercially zoned, $114,000 — Palo Colorado, 2-five acre parcels with magnificent ridgetop ocean views, $170,000 for both.

CLOSE-IN HOME + ACREAGE
A CARMEL VALLEY CLASSIC
Two vintage homes of redwood, with beamed ceilings, and 2 smashing Carmel stone fireplaces. The main home is one great room with bath and kitchen. The semi-attached artists' studio becomes the ideal retreat, while the upstairs "crow's nest" master suite boasts views aplenty. The value of this prime property lies primarily in the level land — there's approximately 6.5 acres with mountain views and country serenity. The ideal close-in location is just 10 minutes from the mouth of Carmel Valley, with possibilities for a minor subdivision. $640,000.

PACIFIC HEIGHTS PERFECTION
You'll love this ideal 3 bedroom, 2 bath, bay view townhome that's just 1 year old, in Pacific Heights, a planned-unit-development of detached, single-family residences. There's a huge, bay view master suite, while additional bedrooms are well-separated on the ground level for privacy. In addition to lofty cathedral ceilings you'll find neutral wall-to-wall carpeting, fireplace, an oversized, double garage, and delightful garden patio off the kitchen which includes breakfast area, tile and built-ins. Maintenance-free grounds, with lots of privacy. Offered at $224,500.

HIDDEN HILLS HAVEN
An elegant 3 bedroom, 2 bath country home, with walled, Spanish-style courtyard, living/dining space with cathedral ceiling and fireplace. Unique kitchen/family room includes a complete center-island preparation and breakfast bar, floor-to-ceiling, concealed storage space, wet bar and huge decks. The master suite includes sitting room and garden bath. Offered at $419,000.

VERY PEBBLE BEACH
An elegantly appointed spacious residence on 1/2 level acre near golf at Poppy Hills, Pebble and spyglass. From the exquisite beveled glass which flanks the terrezzo entry to the French doors onto the decked gardens, all is correct. The master suite includes huge wardrobe/exercise room, his/hers garden baths, steeping Jacuzzi tub. A huge country French kitchen of saltillo tile features window bays and skylights. A delight — ideal for casual or formal entertaining. Offered at $729,000.

GroveMont THEATER ARTS CENTER

The concept of GroveMont Theater arose in 1981, but its actual creation was the result of Founder/Executive Director Stephen Moorer's 20-year involvement with the performing arts, an involvement which began with, and was successfully nurtured by, Marcia Hovick's Carmel based Children's Experimental Theater/Staff Players. In conjunction with Dan Gotch and his Poetic Drama Institute, based at Carl Cherry Foundation, Moorer and Gotch began a NEW PLAY SERIES at Cherry Hall, which eventually metamorphasized into GroveMont. It was evident to them both that a series of new, challenging and artistic plays could be a success in our region. (That season included "Shadow Box," Christofer; "Hello & Goodbye," Fugard; "Ghosts," O'Keefe; "Hold Me," Phieffer; "Split," Weller; and "Dark Pony," Mamet.)

Accordingly, in 1983, Moorer created GroveMont Theater, and mounted his first season at Carmel's Cherry Hall, where Gotch remained as Program Director, a position he had held since 1977. In 1985, after a series of productions at Cherry as well as other venues, GroveMont opened a Theater Arts Center in Monterey, as the next step in its expansion. (Productions included "Scapino," Dale, staged at Pacific Grove Middle School; "Medea," Jeffers, at Carmel's Outdoor Forest Theater; "Wait Until Dark," Knott, at the Monterey YMCA; and "Nuts," Topor, "Crimes of the Heart," Henley, "The Woods," Mamet, etc. at Cherry Hall.) By 1985, Gotch, who had served on GroveMont's Board of Directors since its inception, had joined the GroveMont staff, as had John Rousseau, a member of the Magic Carpet Band, based for many years in Carmel Valley. Rousseau was also locally known as designer and technician for the Forest Theater.

Moorer was determined to do four things with GroveMont:

1. Stress professional-level quality.

2. Involve the community as directly as possible in the theatrical process so as to build a solid audience base of support for GroveMont's varied programs.

3. Keep the performing base spread throughout the county, performing at such venues as the Forest Theater, Carmel; The Arts Center, Monterey; The Custom House Plaza, Monterey; extensive tours; etc.

4. Select the newest, innovative plays available, based on high artistic and literary merit, which would challenge the audiences in Monterey County ... The New Play Series.

The ARTS CENTER opened its doors in January of 1986, giving GroveMont a permanent home-base. Successful seasons of newer plays continue to be mounted there, with the 5th Season opening 11/89 with the Central Coast premiere of "Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune." The CARMEL PLAY FESTIVAL enters its 6th year, with Rousseau's version of Aristophanes' "Lysistrata." The Forest Theater has been a consistent home to GroveMont, since Jeffers' "Medea" was staged in 1984. The POETIC DRAMA INSTITUTE now produces only through GroveMont, stressing literary based presentations of original works, many of which have their world premiere through this co-producing arrangement. Carmel's Cherry Foundation continues to be a P.D.I. performance venue. THEATREFEST, also in its 6th year, has grown into a major Central Coast theatrical attraction, with attendance to its many free events continually growing. By the end of TheatreFest '89, total six-year attendance exceeded a quarter of a million. GroveMont's TOURING PROGRAM has continued to grow, presenting plays in King City, Salinas and the Forest Theater.

GroveMont has become a major artistic institution in Monterey County, and continues to grow and serve the community which nurtures it.

Carmel's Historic Forest Theater

A HISTORY

About to turn 80, and still going strong...

Due to the vision of the inspired and caring artists who formed the Forest Theater Society of Carmel-by-the-Sea in 1910, and created the Forest Theater, you are able to experience this wonderful creative performance space today.

In 1910, it cost $1.00 a year to be a member of the Society, and Carmel was described in the Society's brochure as having "forests nearly to the sea... To the south for a hundred miles down the coast is wilderness... Carmel-by-the-Sea is a town of bungalows, cottages, and shingle-covered houses (with enough services for) just the necessities of civilization: and it has four hotels, none so great that there is a danger of tourist influx." Some things have changed, but the Forest Theater remains a creative mecca for Peninsula residents, visitors and the many diverse, artistic groups which utilize this unique space.

The major driving force behind the creation of the Forest Theater Society and the Forest Theater itself was Herbert Heron. He found the site for the natural amphitheater, helped to acquire the property and tried to keep the original artistic vision intact.

His daughter, Constance Heron Robinson, grew up in Carmel and retired here. She was a wealth of information on the Forest Theater and gave assorted props and costumes from Mr. Heron's collection to the Carmel Play Festival, shortly before her death in August of this year. Her presence will be missed.

The Society's directorate sought to do one play a year, a premier by an American playwright, and also set about to act as an umbrella organization for other groups and individuals wishing to use the Forest Theater. The Forest Theater Society stated... "The play should be selected by competition for its merit as drama, poetry, beauty and art. This performance should be the annual production of the society and should be the chief aim of its year's work. But the theater need not be idle during the interval. Other plays would be given try-outs, other dramatic organizations would carry out their ideas on its stage, authors and playwrights would use it to discover what was or was not in their endeavors... After the Annual Production, usually the next two evenings, a children's play is given; then other dramatic organizations, playwrights and individuals present offerings. For two months there is a play almost every week..."

Nothing, however, remains as simple or pure as it first seems, and the 80 years in-between its inception and now have seen the Forest Theater triumph; fail; alter its mission, then return to its original precepts, then change, etc.; survive two World Wars; become the property of the City of Carmel; fall into disrepair and be ressurrected. Most importantly, The Forest Theater has survived, weathering indifferent City Councils, attacks by developers and the simple ravages of time.

During these times, the Forest Theater has been a haven for various producing groups during the 80 years of its history. Included are The Western Drama Society, the Carmel Club of Arts & Crafts, the Carmel Boys Club, the Forest Theater Society and the Forest Theater Guild. Most important, and continuous,

Lysistrata

The "original" battle between the sexes.

Lysistrata is a strong minded woman who has had enough of war. There are never any men around to take care of their wives. The Peloponnesian wars have been going on for 20 years and the treasury is empty, the society is in shambles and there is no end in sight. Lysistrata "mulls, kneads and files down" her idea and decides to unite the women of Athens and Sparta in a sex strike until the men, both Spartans and Athenians alike, declare a unilateral truce. The action takes place between Lysistrata and the women she enlists and the male elements of the Athenian bureaucracy. As in many Greek plays, there are two choruses, one of men and one of women, who debate the main points brought up by the principal characters. The action is fast and funny, but don't forget that this is an antiwar play which crosses time boundaries and speaks to us today.

DIRECTOR'S NOTES:

Lysistrata was first produced by Aristophanes in 411 B.C. It remains one of the most prominent pieces of literature depicting the battle between the sexes. It is bawdy and direct in its sexual explicitness and can be performed in a manner that many could deem lewd, however Lysistrata is a comedy first, and our object is to entertain, not to offend. I have chosen a fast-paced slapstick style because I believe Aristophanes intended this sort of broad comedy to carry his message, and using updated language and action makes the material more accessible to a modern audience. I certainly haven't changed the content, but you might see the wrong costume piece or someone making a modern reference...it is only to make you laugh. Within the context of "the original sexual comedy," the true theme of Lysistrata is sometimes lost. Even 2,000 years ago, the Greeks knew that it was better to "make love not war," a message that certainly rings true today. Perhaps if the wives of the world took Lysistrata's cue and refused to love their husbands until all war ended, we could see a change for the better in the state of the world. Who knows?

Carmel's Historic Forest Theater

has been the free Sunday afternoon series, staged by the Carmel Arts Commissions for over two decades. The city, having acquired the property in 1937 has naturally been the most consistent user of its own space, and the free Sundays have seen hundreds of different groups performing for locals and tourists alike. It is through the City of Carmel's auspices that the Forest Theater is able to be used at all, for the city maintains, controls and supervises the space, most recently adding new seating prior to the 1989 season.

The overall history of accomplishments by the artists who have refused to let the Forest Theater die is quite magnificent, and a testament to the dedicated people who have loved and worked in the space as well as to the performance space itself, which brings artistic inspiration to all who use it. To quote Herbert Heron once again, from a 1966 article in the Carmel Pine Cone...

"(The Forest Theater) is now 56 years old and can boast without vanity of the following achievements:

Fourteen world premiers of plays by famous authors... twenty-two Shakespeare productions, six plays by Bernard Shaw, eight dramatizations of stories by Robert Louis Stevenson... (plus productions of works by authors which include) W.B. Yeats, Maxwell Anderson, Granville Barker, John Millington Synge, A.A. Milne, Edmond Rostand, Euripides, Aristophanes, Jean Giraudoux... (etc.)... 150 productions. Surely a magnificent record!

This total does not include the large number of band concerts, dance programs, variety shows, recitals... shows brought in from out of town... (and) afternoon programs free to the public on Sunday afternoons, sponsored by the Carmel Arts Commission.

Lately, there have been 38 productions written by, or acted by, or played for children or young people. This alone has made the Forest Theater worthwhile."

1966, however, was not a good year for the Forest Theater. Time had taken its toll. Weeds grew. The seats were worn out. Then, the most positive artistic success of that decade came for the Forest Theater when Marcia Hovick began her Children's Experimental Theater in the indoor performance space, built below the outdoor stage. This was 1968. C.E.T., with their adjunct group the Staff Players, has remained an integral part of the Forest Theater experience to this day, continually producing plays by and for children and the classics during the last 28 years. (In 1989, plays performed included Giraudoux's "Electra," Pirandello's "Right You Are, If You Think You Are," the U.S. premiere of the "Godot Conspiracy," and the traditional three weekends of free children's performances plus extensive touring of the area's schools.)

Most importantly, when word leaked out that the City was considering tearing down the theater in 1971, there was a strong outcry from the community, which led to eventual saving of the space and the development of the Forest Theater Guild that same year.

Since its inception in 1910, there had been many societies, guilds, and groups associated with the Forest Theater, some closely associated with Herbert Heron's original artistic vision of the Forest Theater Society, and some deviating greatly. The common bond, of course, was the continuation and success of this unique performance space.

In 1984, GroveMont Theater began productions on the outdoor Forest stage, developing the early fall time of Sept./Oct. Beginning in '84 with a production of "Medea," by Carmel poet Robinson Jeffers, GroveMont's time slot has been devoted to originals (two "Robin Hood" plays by local writer Dan Gotch) and classics ("Scapino," adapted by Jim Dale, "The Three and Four Musketeers," adapted by Gotch). 1988 saw the beginning of a free Sunday afternoon Music & Poetry series, and 1989 brings early evening "twilight" productions to the outdoor stage.

Christened the Carmel Play Festival, and based on Herbert Heron's original purpose as set forth in the 1916 Forest Theater Society Brochure, the 1989 Outdoor Forest Theater season presented by GroveMont Theater includes: John Rousseau's version of Aristophanes' "Lysistrata," the fairytale classic "The Pied Piper of Hamlin," plus the popular free Sunday afternoon concert series, "Poetry & Music Amidst the Pines," this year featuring Ric Masten, Taelen Thomas, Pete Pierce & The Squeezehogs Bluegrass Band, Alisa Fineman, and the 1989 Irish Jam with Brid Caveny, Sean Folsom and Friends.

It seems only fitting to conclude this brief discussion of the Forest Theater with a final quote from Herbert Heron...

"The aims, ambitions, hopes of the Society are that we may find and point world-wide a play -- say many plays -- worthy of general knowledge; that we may discover a star -- dream and help give it to the lovers of dreams of genius; that we may be the link between unrecognized inspiration and the rewarding public."

Thank you.

Enjoy the show...

The Forest Theater Society

August 20, 1989

Dear Friends,

1990 marks the Eightieth Birthday of Carmel's historic Forest Theater, the first open air community theater in America. The Carmel Play Festival, a production of GroveMont Outreach, The Poetic Drama Institute and Monterey Peninsula College, would like to invite you to join us in celebrating this upcoming birthday through a variety of exciting events... a Gala Party; "Lysistrata," an original adaptation of a classic Greek play; "The Pied Piper of Hamlin," a children's show; and concerts, poetry readings, etc.

Most importantly, we want to invite you to participate in the artistic vision which originally motivated the creation of the Forest Theater. To paraphrase from The Forest Theater Society and Herbert Heron, a major force in creating the Forest Theater and the original Society...

"Each year we would choose one original play, preferably by an American author, with that choice based on the play's merit as drama, poetry, beauty and art. While this would be the main, annual production, other plays would be given, other dramatic organizations would use the space, children's plays would be integral to the overall vision, and creativity was to be strongly nourished."

In 1989, having concentrated on originals, classics, poetry and music during the past five years, the staff of GroveMont wishes to re-emphasize the focus of their annual Forest Theater performances, The Carmel Play Festival, to more strongly reflect the original Society concepts. We plan to reactivate the Forest Theater Society, creating a support group whose sole intent is to keep alive the original vision of Herbert Heron and the other dedicated artists who began the Forest Theater in 1910. It is clear that a performance venue as unique as the Forest Theater can, should, and does support any number of varied styles, productions and organizations. The Carmel Play Festival's contribution to this creative diversity, which was in itself an integral part of that original vision, will continue to be classics, originals, children's productions, music and poetry.

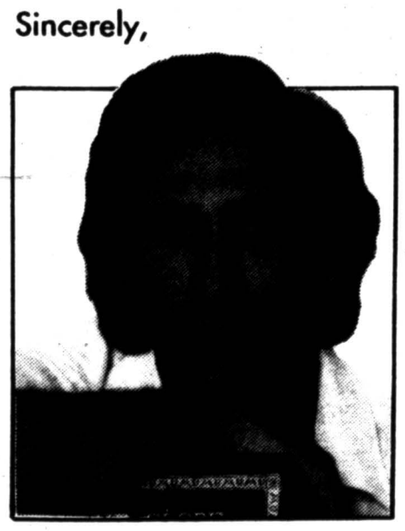
In conclusion, to quote Mr. Heron once again, from a 1966 article in the Carmel Pine Cone...

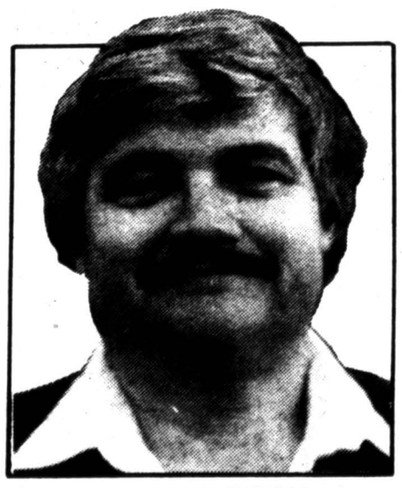
"The Forest Theater -- supremely beautiful, absolutely unique -- is a valuable plant in working order, and a golden crown for Carmel."

We feel it is a golden crown for the entire Peninsula. Let's keep it that way!

Sincerely,



STEPHEN MOORER
...founder, of the Carmel Play Festival, grew up in Carmel, attended Carmel Middle & High Schools, & was a student/staff member of Forest Theater's Children's Experimental Theater for almost 10 years. Stephen has been involved as an actor, director, designer, stage manager or publicist for close to 100 Forest Theater productions. Acting roles at the Forest include "Tom Jones," "Robin Hood," Sylvestro in "Scapino" and Phillip in "Lion In Winter." He, with John Rousseau and Dan Gotch, comprise the executive staff of the GroveMont Theater, which he founded in 1983.



DAN GOTCH
...moved to the Monterey Peninsula in 1973, bring with him the Poetic Drama Institute, which he re-established at Carmel's Carl Cherry Foundation, where he served as program director for six years. He was Production Manager for the Community Theater of the Monterey Peninsula, based at Sunset Center, and now is on staff at GroveMont Theater, where the PDI continues to thrive. Gotch, an accomplished and oft-produced playwright, has premiered two original plays and a new, two-part adaptation of Dumas' Musketeer's stories, all at the Forest Theater.

JOHN ROUSSEAU
...co-founded the Young Artists Theatre at the Forest Theater in 1968 and produced two productions, "Waiting for Godot" and "Shakespeare Underground." In 1971, he was a founding member of The Magic Carpet Band and performed many times at the Forest Theater during the next six years. From 1975 to 1984, John donated his skills as Master Carpenter on many Forest Theater Guild productions. Since 1984, he has been Technical Director for the Carmel Play Festival and is now Artist-In-Residence and Technical Director for the GroveMont Theater.

Command Performance stylists specialize in latest looks

Under the tutelage of technical director Gregory, the staff at Command Performance certainly has some of the best-educated hair stylists on the peninsula.

Because of this it is able to keep up with the latest hair-styling trends.

In addition to in-house education, every six weeks instructors from world class salons come to Command Performance and give stylists a three-hour seminar.

Located in the Del Monte Shopping Center in Monterey, Command Performance is a full-service salon with 13 stylists able to find the right "look" for everyone — that translates to men, women and children.

The studio also employs master stylist Susi, hair artist Danelle, manicurist Bonnie and Terri, who works in pierced earrings.

Command Performance is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday; until 7 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Walk-ins are welcome. Phone 373-2729.

Carmel Foot-Stop returns pleasure to the art of walking

Carmel Foot-Stop specializes in selection, service and satisfaction, and believes that walking is the exercise of a lifetime.

With that in mind, the store features Rockport shoes, the first shoe manufacturer to be awarded the Seal of Acceptance by the American Podiatric Medical Association.

Rockport has been long-known for pioneering engineering concepts in lightweight, comfortable footwear, made specifically for walking.

Offering the largest selection of Rockport styles for men and women in California, Foot-Stop has been managed by Larry Escobar for the past five years.

The Foot-Stop provides Rockport shoes for dress, walking and casual-wear.

The Carmel Foot-Stop is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. The store is located in the Doud Arcade at Ocean and San Carlos. Phone 625-5587.

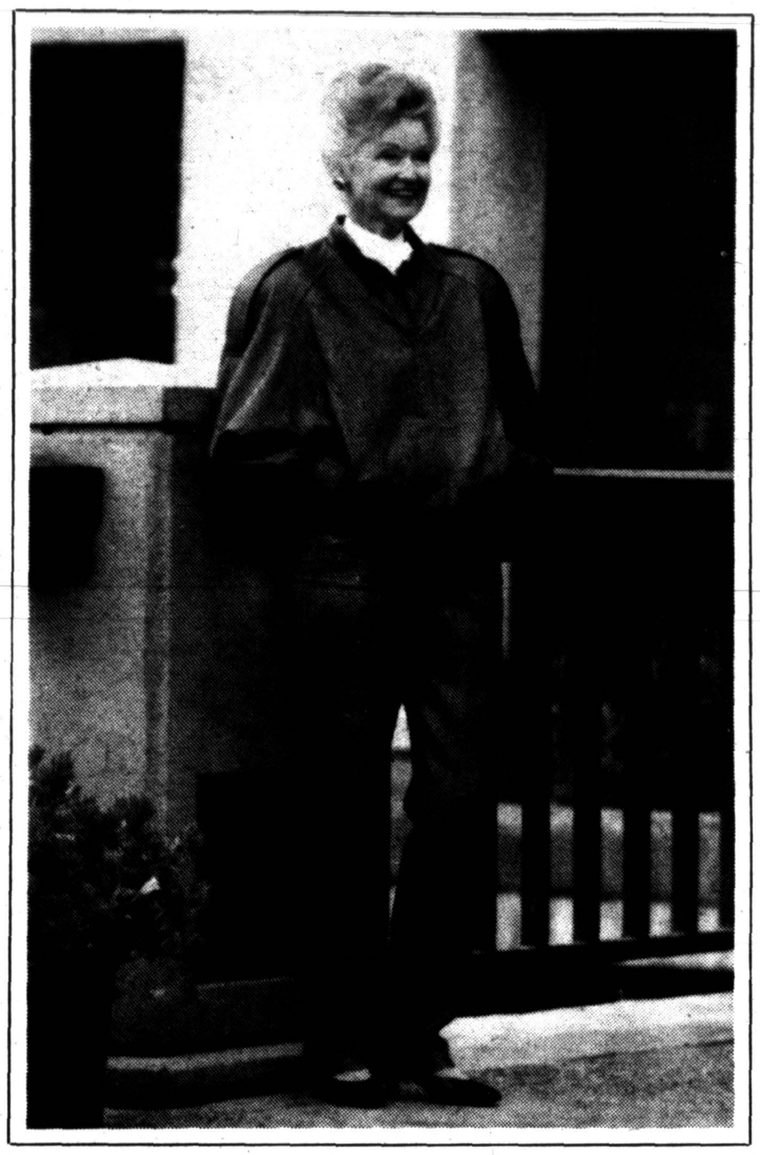
Explore the newest designs at the Carmel Dress Shop



FABULOUS ULTRALEATHER (an Ultrasuede brand fabric) is the highest grade synthetic leather available. The soft, supple hand and luxurious appearance belies its outstanding physical properties. Ultraleather can be machine washed on the delicate cycle in warm water and tumble dried at a low setting. View the Ultraleather options at the Carmel Dress Shop. (Gregg Wutke photo).

The wonderful thing about fashion is there's something to fit everyone's tastes and pocketbook. Consider the designer look, the elegant attitude and the practical approach — at Carmel Dress Shop you'll find those three qualities combined.

This fall the Carmel Dress Shop brings to its racks suits, jackets and slacks made of Ultraleather, brought to you by the makers of the completely washable Ultrasuede.

Carmel Dress Shop offers the best selection of Castleberry Knits to choose from on the peninsula — featuring soft tops and knit skirts, which are completely washable and perfect travellers. Carmel Dress Shop also stocks suits and dresses of Peter Lynn hand-loomed knits.

To complement its fashions, the store stocks ample jewelry made by famous names such as Christian Dior and Napier.

The Carmel Dress Shop is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 4 Sunday. The store is located on Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street in downtown Carmel. Phone 624-3389.

HIGH-TECH fabrics and innovative designs characterize the newest in skiwear, offered at Sunshine Surf & Sport, 443 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey.

High-tech clothing stocked at Sunshine Surf & Sport

Sunshine Surf & Sport offers the latest in ski-slope fashions this fall created in high-tech fabrics.

The styles successfully combine function and fashion, such as one fabric that looks like silk but is completely breathable and waterproof.

Women's styles see the European oversize look, tight-fitting lowers and in-the-boot pants.

Men's clothing features bright, solid colors, with appointments of DayGlo and interesting logos.

Check out cutting-edge labels such as North Face Extreme Gear, Nevica, Serac and Obermeyer. There's also the more conservative surf image provided by Quicksilver and Rip Curl.

Sunshine Surf & Sport is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. The store located at 443 Lighthouse Ave. in Monterey. Phone 375-5015.

Country clothes emphasized at Polo

Country clothes, either rugged or refined, represent an important direction for Polo Ralph Lauren's fall clothing and sportswear collection.

These cloths join Lauren's broad palette of menswear classics, which include American country clothes, equestrian attire and elegant city suits.

This fall's collection places special emphasis on the importance of the country tweed suit. To this end, Lauren uses hand-loomed herringbone.

Polo Ralph Lauren is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. The store is located at Sixth and Mission in downtown Carmel.

The Quail & Thistle gathers quality designs

The Quail & Thistle, one of the shops at the Lodge in Pebble Beach, has been a purveyor of classic clothing to women of Central California and, indeed, the nation since 1966.

The store evokes a nostalgic New England country feeling in its ambiance that sets it apart from the usual and makes a visit pleasantly memorable.

Quail & Thistle has long been a source for prestige sweaters such as Berek, Dia, South Wool and Blueberry Woolens. But now a new emphasis on sweater resources makes Quail & Thistle one of the most likely choices when you are looking for that special sweater.

Quail & Thistle opens at 10 a.m. seven days a week, and will refund your gate fee with a purchase. Phone 625-5050.

March Hare salon pampers with innovative treatments

With practically hundreds of full-service salons to choose from on the peninsula, what makes March Hare in Carmel stand apart from all the rest? Owner/stylist Mary Anna sums it up: "The most important person at March Hare is the one in the chair, not the one behind it."

The March Hare team creates a balance of ongoing technical education, creativity, and a humanistic, almost spiritual, overall approach. Your March Hare stylist will draw out your needs, desires and concerns. Relying on her own expertise and knowledge, as well as that of her March Hare colleagues, she'll create a style with an innovative perm, color or perhaps a simple shaping will do for your personalized style.

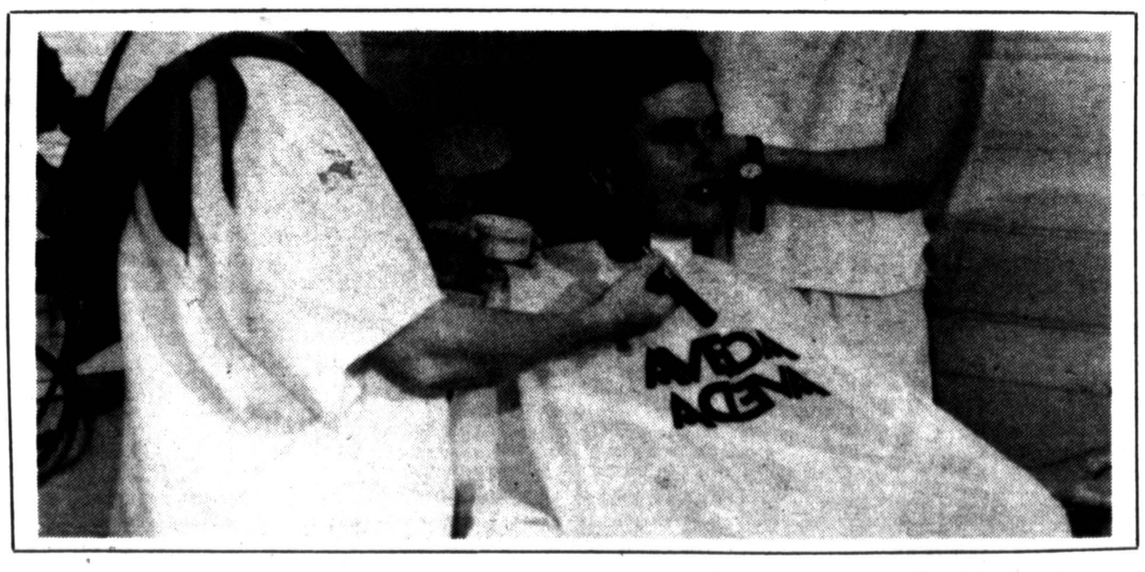
March Hare is home to the peninsula's most skilled hair and skin care professionals. Color specialist Nansi, a former educator with Goldwell of Germany, has at her disposal a sophisticated color computer, which gives the exact color choice of more than 71,000 color formulas.

March Hare also offers aromatherapy, a scientific art which combines ancient traditions with current clinical research to create pure, distilled flower and plant essences. By creating distinct benefits to beautify and balance both body and mind, aromatherapy embraces the whole being for a soothing, revitalizing experience.

Mary Anna and her staff are resident experts in the use of the Aveda hair, skin care and makeup system, which originates from three natural sciences: ayurvedic, aromatherapy and homeopathy. The products work together with the stylist to both relax and stimulate, to balance the entire being with a combination of pure, natural elements. March Hare stylists only use and recommend products they would personally utilize.

March Hare is available for weddings and special occassions, or to create an everyday look that's perfect for you. Women, men and children are invited to see what makes March Hare different from all other salons.

It's open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and evenings by appointment. Pamper yourself with something very special at March Hare, located on Mission and Fifth in downtown Carmel. Phone 624-3024.



AT THE MARCH Hare, the focus is on drawing out a client's natural beauty. Products and innovative stylists work together to relax and enrich your natural beauty. Pamper yourself by making an appointment at the salon, located on Mission and Fifth. Call 624-3024. (Photograph by Gregg Wutke).

Local designers featured in Susan Bloch collections

Featuring creative clothing for career women, Susan Bloch Extraordinary Clothing and Gifts offers creations primarily crafted by local artists.

Dutch designer, now-turned-Pacific Grove-resident, Loes Hines and peninsula resident Vivienne Riggio work closely with women who come to the store in search of ways to expand their wardrobes or avenues to come up with original outfits.

"We are very responsive to what people on the peninsula want," says owner Susan Bloch. "What works here is individual attention."

Bloch presents fashion workshops every few weeks at which time clients bring clothes in that they want to accessorize or create new uses for. The workshops are presided over by Hines and Riggio.

With sizes from petite to extra-large, Bloch stocks clothing that is easy to wear, packs easily for business trips and is, most of all, comfortable.

Bloch will present a fashion show of her womenswear at noon Saturday, Sept. 30, at the Monterey Beach Hotel, and is available for local fashion showings upon request.

Susan Block Extraordinary Clothing and Gifts is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and until 8 p.m. Wednesday. The store is located at 505 Lighthouse Ave. in downtown Pacific Grove.

BONNIE BELL, manager of Pacific Trim & Tone, would be happy to introduce you to the Acu-Massage Table. This scientifically developed table offers a programmable massage ranging from very gentle to deep and penetrating, over the full body or concentrated on specific areas, with or without soothing heat, and complemented by favorite stereo sounds — all at the touch of a button.

Pacific Trim & Tone pioneers soothing methods of exercise

For those too tired to work out, but who still want to get in better shape, Pacific Trim & Tone might provide the answer to your problems.

Located in Pacific Grove, the salon is attracting people who are looking for a passive yet effective way to exercise.

"It's a great place to tone up, lose inches from your body and to relax in a nice atmosphere with no sweating," says spokesperson Bonnie Bell.

The toning system uses seven new fitness machines, with workouts taking less than an hour.

The system works the body to firm, tone and tighten, while at the same time increasing strength, endurance and flexibility.

Most people will notice an inch loss after only a few sessions, provided the person is consistent with their workouts.

The different toning tables all serve varying functions in toning up the body — stomach, hips, legs, circulation and stretching.

Pacific Trim & Tone now features the Acumassage table — the world's best body massager.

Pacific Trim & Tone is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and is located at 716 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove. Phone 372-5095.

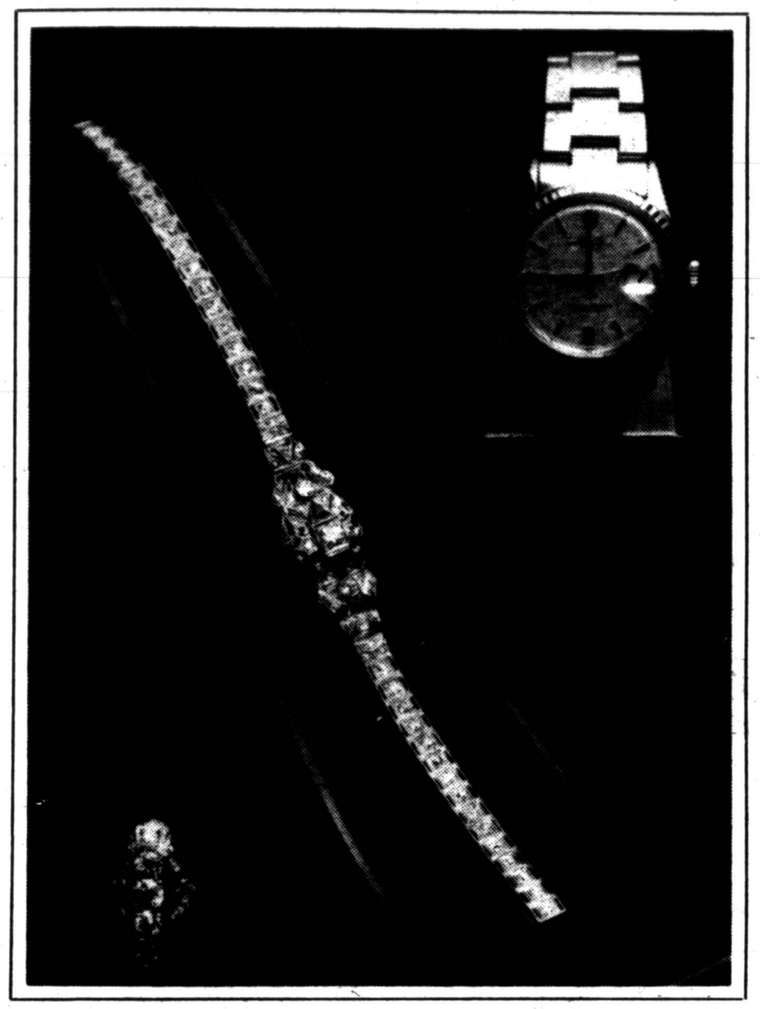
Art Deco, Nouveau designs live anew at Fourtane's



FINE ESTATE jewelry and timepieces, all guaranteed as if brand new, are the specialty of Fourtane's Jewelry in Carmel's Pine Inn Courtyard. (Gregg Wutke photograph).

Fourtane's Jewelry offers fine estate jewelry and antiques for those in search of unique, quality merchandise.

Featuring jewelry and antiques from as long ago as a century to the newer Art Deco and Art Nouveau periods, Fourtane's allows customers to take part in the one-of-a-kind designs and craftsmanship of days gone by.

The store also has a dazzling array of lady's and men's wrist watches from the 1920s to the 1950s.

All jewelry is set in platinum or gold and is guaranteed as if it were new. Fourtane's also buys fine estate jewelry.

Fourtane's Jewelry is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. seven days a week and is located in the Pine Inn Courtyard at Ocean Avenue and Monte Verde Street. Phone 624-4684.

Sportswise of Carmel casual wear spells fashion

Bursting with color in the latest in fashionable warm-up attire, Sportswise of Carmel has recently expanded to show an even wider assortment of active sportswear for men and women.

The locally owned store with a national reputation for offering the latest trends this fall stays on the forefront of warmup suits, featuring creations by Sergio Tacchini. This fall the store will be featuring a limited number of warmup suits for children by Sergio Tacchini.

In today's fast-paced world the tennis suits featured at Sportswise have become a lifestyle with those on the go. Shopping, dinners on the run and travel present just a few opportunities to wear warmup suits purchased at Sportswise of Carmel.

In addition to a complete line of accessories for men and women, Sportswise of Carmel also features the most complete line of athletic shoes in Carmel.

Specializing in friendly, personal service, Sportswise of Carmel is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. The store is located on the west side of Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues. Phone: 624-6813.

Exercise into autumn with the help of Jazzercise

GET FIT for the holidays through the upbeat Jazzercise programs offered weekly in both Carmel and Pacific Grove. For information, call 625-1079.

Start Jazzercising this fall with the help of Kim Campbell, who leads ongoing weekly sessions at Chautauqua Hall in Pacific Grove. Or check in with Chris Perry, who teaches at Carmel Middle School each week.

The classes work the entire body by emphasizing cardiovascular training, flexibility, stamina and muscle tone.

Exercise is accomplished by working to popular, upbeat music and exclusive choreography, which is lead by the instructor during a 65-minute workout.

Childcare is available. For further information call 625-1079.

Crossroads shopping center boasts quality, selection

Discover The Crossroads, a shopping center which offers a heartwarming return to the charm of a friendly, small village, with more than 100 boutiques, services and restaurants.

The Crossroads is dressed for fall with rich, warm colors throughout the Boulevard. Spend the day, have lunch or just enjoy the spectacular setting of bright flowers lining the streets and charming courtyards.

The Crossroads is filled with fashion statements from 28 fashion stores, ranging from one-of-a-kind designer fashions and classics to lingerie and jewelry.

Four new stores operating in The Crossroads are Fashion Images, a designer fashion store with smart suits, sweaters and partywear; Giggles, offering cards, gifts, and logo-style clothing; J'Arrive, elegant lingerie; Pezzini Farms, a green grocer specializing in fresh produce (artichokes especially), pasta and other treats.

Offering easy parking, The Crossroads is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. The Crossroads is located off Highway 1 at Rio Road.

A journey into the uncommon offered at Cheppu boutique

Upon entering Cheppu, you'll be immediately transported to the Himalayas, the rooftop of the world.

Cheppu — which in Nepalese means protector or guardian diety — offers a blend of imported goods from the Far East, which are hand-picked by owner Christine Kolisch.

The selection of wearables at the downtown Carmel boutique accents distinctive, casual clothing.

All of the selections are made with only natural fibers and feature specialties such as unusual cocoon jackets which are hand-loomed and wood block printed, plus hand-knit sweaters, jackets and coats.

Cheppu also offers accessories such as Nepalese belt bags, scarves and jewelry.

Other items imported from Nepal, Tibet, Bhutan, Burma and Sikkim include Tangka paintings, rugs made with pure sheep wool and vegetable dyes, puppets, Himalayan textiles and dolls.

Cheppu is located in Pantiles Court on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, behind Em Le's restaurant in Carmel.

Cheppu is open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Phone 625-5902.
